"FLYING FOOL" OFF TO PARIS

Today

Let It Grumble.
Fine Sham War—BUT.
Insull's Quadruple Role.
Strong Jaw, Good Sign.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

SCIENTISTS began digging into the lava that covers the buried city of Herculaneum, and immediately Vesuvius began growling, shaking the earth and throwing flaming lava into the air.

Once the diggers would have quit their work in terror, thinking they had displeased the volcano god—or demon.

Now they look at Vesuvius, say "Thank heaven for that safety valve," and go on digging.

OUR sham battle in the Atlantic goes along admirably. Firing is heavy, and the "Blue" force, supposed to be defending us against invasion by the "Black" enemy, yesterday afternoon blew up and destroyed a boat bringing airplanes to attack us. That's most satisfactory.

BUT in real war, the carriers bringing airplanes might not oblige us by coming within range of our guns. The planes might leave their carriers five hundred miles off the coast, go up out of sight, and surprise our big cities.

What then?

IN Chicago, Samuel Insull, not as young as when he worked with Edison in the last century, runs gas, electricity and grand opera, for a city going on four millions.

Now he arranges to run all the city's elevated, surface and future subway lines. Some yell "monopoly," but that word is out of date. Now, it is "the bigger the better," if the man is up to his job.

PRINCETON'S professor of paleontology, R. M. Field, says powerful protruding jaws on handsome young men, in collar or clothing advertisements, show degeneracy. The receding chin of the Neanderthal man, scores of centuries back, is a better chin, says the professor, because it could grip more tightly, hold more and bigger teeth, than the jaw of the collar advertisement.

THE professor is 100 per cent wrong. Successful men usually have well developed jaws and noses. Thinking develops the nose, will power the jaw. The mind that automatically says, "I can," pushes its jaw out. The receding jaw comes of saying, "I can't." Try it yourself. When you say "I can't," the jaw goes back. When you say "I can," the chin sticks out.

MISS SPENCER, seventy years old, rode to work at the Treasury Department and back on a bicycle, saved and made more than $100,000. She leaves small sums to relatives and the balance, $100,000, for a tombstone. Relatives object, the court is asked to decide.

THE foolish waste should be forbidden. But is is interesting to think of that old Treasury clerk pushing her bicycle back and forth, meditating on the grand figure that she would cut in death with her $100,000 tomb, she, who in life has been only a $1,200 a year spinster clerk. Happiness is largely imagination.

STREITENBERGER, SENTENCED, "TALKS"

Prosecutor Harter Calls Grand Jury Meet After He Hears Mellett Death Story

Former Canton Detective Must Spend Each July 16, Day of Editor's Murder, in Solitary Confinement.

MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL OVERRULED

Louis Mazer, State's Star Witness, Jointly Indicted in Murder, Will Plead Guilty to Manslaughter.

CANTON, O. May 20.—Floyd Streitenberger has talked.

Behind closed doors in the same room where Louis Mazer "squealed" regarding the Don R. Mellett murder, Streitenberger today gave County Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., and Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, a statement.

Statement Not Made Public.

On the strength of the statement Harter immediately announced that the Stark county grand jury will be called early next week, instead of June 6, as scheduled.

What the ex-detective said, has not yet been made public.

Streitenberger was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett assassination and sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary with a stipulation that he spend each July 16 in solitary confinement. At the time of sentence he had nothing to say, according to his attorneys, but later, called for Harter.

Mellett was shot and killed July 16, last.

Implicates Others.

Streitenberger had received his sentence only this morning. Asked at the time if he had anything to say, the convicted man replied in the negative. After being taken to jail, however, he sent for the prosecutor and Slater. Streitenberger's attorneys, J. H. Robertson and Frank T. Bow, and a stenographer were called and the conference was held at the court house.

Shortly afterward, it was reported that the former detective had "told the whole story and implicated others."

It was learned on good authority that one of those named in Streitenberger's confession, was a former police officer on the Canton force.

Additional indictments are expected to be handed down when the grand jury convenes.

Third Man Sentenced.

Streitenberger's motion for a new trial was overruled and his sentence made more binding than either that of Patrick Eugene McDermott or Ben Rudner, sentenced to life terms ahead of him, for their complicity in the crime.

The ex-detective had regained his composure and seemed in fair spirits this morning.

Louis Mazer, Canton bootlegger and state's star witness during the Streitenberger trial, who was jointly indicted in the Mellett death plot, will probably be allowed to plead to a manslaughter charge, sometime today, it was said. His sentence is expected to be fairly light.

LENGEL REOPENS FIGHT FOR JOB

CANTON, O., May 20.—Asserting that he was removed through improper methods, former Chief of Police Seranus A. Lengel plans a serious effort to regain his job.

James Ammerman, Lengel's attorney, today had asked Common Pleas Judge Clevenger for permission to file an amended petition to Lengel's suit, intended to eliminate faults in original pleading.

Judge Clevenger declared he was unable to grant the request without the consent of Judge H. C. Pontius, who represents Mayor Swarts.

The case is not expected to come up before another week.

DEATH CLAIMS FIVE IN FAMILY IN 17 MONTHS

Mother Died in Home Here Three Weeks Ago Today.

Marking the fifth death in the family within 17 months, Thomas Nolan, aged 18, son of the late Timothy S. Nolan, of 210 Jefferson street, and employed as a pressman for the Joseph Betz Printing company, succumbed in the Mercy hospital, Pittsburgh, at 1:20 o'clock this morning following an operation. He had been ill for eleven weeks.

His death occurred exactly three weeks after that of his mother, Mrs. Mary Nolan. His sister, Mrs. Mary Jeffries, died in Wellsville on April 10, 1926, while five months later her husband, Henry Jeffries, a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman, was fatally injured in an accident at Cleveland. Timothy S. Nolan, the father, was the first to die.

Thomas Nolan, the youngest of nine children, was a popular boy. He is survived by four brothers, Daniel, John, Francis and Bernard, and three sisters, Misses Josephine and Elizabeth and Mrs. Mary Barker.

He was a member of the St. Aloysius Catholic church, where funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Monday morning, in charge of the pastor, Rev. Thomas E. Walsh. Burial will be made in the St. Aloysius cemetery.

Carl Kelly Faces Assault Count; Wife Struck by Brick

Carl Kelly will face Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning upon a charge of assault and battery, preferred as the result of an attack which he is alleged to have made upon his wife, Mrs. Nora Kelly, at their home in Walnut street Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Kelly, who police say, was struck by a brick, was discharged from the City hospital last night.

Kelly, who claims his wife was injured when her head struck the street after he pushed her, will be defended by Attorney Ben L. Bennett.

SOLONS VOTE FOR REPEAL OF BAN ON STREET OBSTRUCTIONS

Ordinance Placed on First Reading by 4 to 3 Vote.

DEBATE PROPOSAL

Mayor's Pay Slash Put on Second Reading.

Legislation calling for the repeal of the ordinance, enacted June 17, 1926, prohibiting the obstruction of streets, sidewalks and alleys, was passed on first reading, while another measure, reducing the mayor's salary from $2,800 to $1,200 per year, was approved on second reading by the city council last night.

Vote on the proposed repealer was 4 to 3, Councilmen Goodballet, Hughes, Farrall and Kommel approving it, while Solons Hayes, Kelly and Poole opposed it. Hayes sought to defer action on the measure, reporting that the committee of which he was chairman had been unable to complete its investigation.

Farrall replied that the committee had sufficient time to go into the merits of the proposition and had "failed to reach an agreement." Kommel declared that the ordinance should be rigidly enforced or repealed. Poole expressed the opinion that the measure should be modified without repealing it.

Hayes' motion to defer action for two weeks was lost, 4 to 3, Kelly and Poole supporting his move. The ordinance was then taken up for consideration and placed on first reading, but was halted when an effort to suspend the rules lacked the necessary three-fourths vote. The vote on all roll calls stood 4 to 3.

Prohibit Crook Alley Parking.

Hughes and Kommel opposed the proposed salary slash for the mayor when it was taken up for second reading. Hayes, Farrall, Goodballet, Poole and Kelly voted for it. There was no debate on the measure.

Ordinance prohibiting the parking of automobiles in Crook alley between Fifth and Sixth streets was passed on third and final reading with Farrall, Hayes and Poole voting against it. The ordinance provides a $2 fine for violation of the order.

Thirteen other measures were

Harry Kelly, Alliance, was fined $500 and costs by Mayor W. L. DeBray, Hanoverton, last night, after his arrest by Marshal H. E. Merriman on a charge of transporting liquor. He was committed to the county jail at Lisbon today.

Merriman who was accompanied by his wife and two children, parked his automobile near the village building in Hanoverton. During his absence Marshal Merriman discovered seven gallons and one quart of liquor in the car.

The machine was ordered confiscated by the Hanoverton officials.

"Lucky" Lindbergh Shrewd Air Bird

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles Lindbergh, daredevil who has set the aviation world in a tail-spin, needs a new nick-name.

"Lucky" his friends called him when he saved his life in several close calls by parachuting to safety.

"Flying Fool" the headliners yclept him when he flew from San Diego to New York, enroute to Paris, in a couple of days.

But he certainly is nobody's fool.

He is one of the shrewdest, most level-headed flyers who ever worked a joy-stick. And his sense of direction makes him a veritable bird of the air.

Vision Obscured.

Enclosed in his cabin he sees not where he is flying. A huge gasoline tank blocks his vision forward. Instruments and closed windows surround him on the sides.

Thieves Force Way Into Garage, Steal New Buick Sedan

Automobile thieves broke into the garage of E. L. Green, Oakland grocer, last night, and fled with Green's new 1927 model Buick sedan.

Door on the garage, located at the rear of the Green residence, 1577 Globe street, was broken. Doors on the car were also locked, the owner said. Green heard a noise during the night, arose and looked out of the window, but saw nothing. The theft was discovered at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Green purchased the car a few days ago and had no insurance on it.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE BEGINS ATLANTIC SPAN DESPITE MIST

Youthful Daredevil Starts 3,600-mile Flight.

"I'll See You in France," Byrd, Rival Shouts.

ROOSEVELT FLYING FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Braving the perils of rain storms and fog over the north Atlantic, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, the young dare-devil American aviator hopped off on the 3,600 mile, non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight for Paris this morning in his Ryron monoplane, "Spirit of St. Louis." Lindbergh took the air at 7:52 o'clock.

Departs In Misty Weather.

Flying alone and carrying only sandwiches, a few chocolate bars and some distilled water, Lindbergh departed in misty weather. Rain earlier in the night had ceased [illegible] o'clock.

His machine was brought here from its hangar [illegible] at 4:30 o'clock in order to take advantage of the specially prepared runway nine-tenth of a mile in length.

The "Flying Fool," traveled almost a mile, nine-tenths to be exact, before his plane rose from the ground. He flew very low, and passed out of sight of the thousands of watchers at the field at an altitude of only 200 feet.

Byrd Waves Goodbye.

The first of the men who for days have been waiting for good weather to make the hop-off on the long 3,600-mile flight headed straight east as he took the air. The young pilot of the "Spirit of St. Louis" had planned to circle the field three times as a final engine test before starting out on his lone flight, but he evidently changed his mind after leaving the ground, and decided to be on his way without any more delay.

Commander Richard Byrd, who plans to hop off soon in his giant Fokker on the similar expedition, waved good-bye to the young St. Louisian.

"Good luck, old man," he shouted, "I'll see you in Paris."

Lindbergh only grinned.

A great cheer rose from the packed thousands of watchers on the field, who were held back by heavy police detachments, as the silver colored plane, glittering in the faint sun which

MOTHER'S LOVE AND GOD-SPEED ARE WITH DARING DETROIT PILOT AS HE WINGS WAY ACROSS OCEAN

DETROIT, May 20.—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, 25-year-old "flying fool" has a mother's love and God-speed as he wings his way on the 3,600-mile non-stop trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris.

Notified today by the International News Service of her son's hop-off, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, chemistry teacher at Cass Technical High school, said:

"Oh, thank you very much for the information. "My heart and soul is in his work, and I am praying he succeeds."

"Kid Flier's" Take off Praised.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Captain Charles Lindbergh's take-off this morning on his flight to Paris appeared clumsy and inexpert to the average citizen watching the event, but fliers at the field were profuse in their praise of the "kid flier's" manipulation of his heavily loaded plane over a muddy runway.

"It was beautifully done," said Commander Richard Byrd, who is preparing to take off on a similar flight in his giant Fokker. "Captain Lindbergh knew just what he was doing every minute. God be with him on this trip. He'll probably get there all right. After that take-off I believe he can do anything with his ship.

"He has plenty of gas. It will hold out five hours longer than the thirty-seven he plans to be in the air.

"Never in all my years of flying have I seen such a take-off. It looked as if it would be impossible to lift the plane off the ground. It was marvelous."

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—The Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" will be withdrawn from the New York-Paris race if Captain Charles Lindbergh successfully completes the non-stop 3,600 mile flight which he started this morning, an official to the Columbia Aircraft corporation announced today.

"We wish Lindbergh all the luck in the world," he said, "and if he makes the flight to Paris we will not attempt it. If he should fail the 'Columbia' is ready to start."

Atlantic Ocean is Just "Big Pan of Water" to Daredevil Whose Flying Philosophy is Simple.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles Lindbergh, daredevil who has set the aviation world in a tail-spin, needs a new nick-name.

"Lucky" his friends called him when he saved his life in several close calls by parachuting to safety.

"Flying Fool" the headliners yclept him when he flew from San Diego to New York, enroute to Paris, in a couple of days.

But he certainly is nobody's fool.

He is one of the shrewdest, most level-headed flyers who ever worked a joy-stick. And his sense of direction makes him a veritable bird of the air.

Vision Obscured.

Enclosed in his cabin he sees not where he is flying. A huge gasoline tank blocks his vision forward. Instruments and closed windows surround him on the sides.

But he never takes his eyes off his

Thieves Force Way Into Garage, Steal New Buick Sedan

Automobile thieves broke into the garage of E. L. Green, Oakland grocer, last night, and fled with Green's new 1927 model Buick sedan.

Door on the garage, located at the rear of the Green residence, 1577 Globe street, was broken. Doors on the car were also locked, the owner said. Green heard a noise during the night, arose and looked out of the window, but saw nothing. The theft was discovered at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Green purchased the car a few days ago and had no insurance on it.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE BEGINS ATLANTIC SPAN DESPITE MIST

Youthful Daredevil Starts 3,600-mile Flight.

"I'll See You in France," Byrd, Rival Shouts.

ROOSEVELT FLYING FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Braving the perils of rain storms and fog over the north Atlantic, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, the young dare-devil American aviator hopped off on the 3,600 mile, non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight for Paris this morning in his Ryron monoplane, "Spirit of St. Louis." Lindbergh took the air at 7:52 o'clock.

Departs In Misty Weather.

Flying alone and carrying only sandwiches, a few chocolate bars and some distilled water, Lindbergh departed in misty weather. Rain earlier in the night had ceased [illegible] o'clock.

His machine [illegible] night here from its hangar [illegible] at 4:30 o'clock in order to take advantage of the specially prepared runway nine-tenth of a mile in length.

The "Flying Fool," traveled almost a mile, nine-tenths to be exact, before his plane rose from the ground. He flew very low, and passed out of sight of the thousands of watchers at the field at an altitude of only 200 feet.

Byrd Waves Goodbye.

The first of the men who for days have been waiting for good weather to make the hop-off on the long 3,600-mile flight headed straight east as he took the air. The young pilot of the "Spirit of St. Louis" had planned to circle the field three times as a final engine test before starting out on his lone flight, but he evidently changed his mind after leaving the ground, and decided to be on his way without any more delay.

Commander Richard Byrd, who plans to hop off soon in his giant Fokker on the similar expedition, waved good-bye to the young St. Louisian.

"Good luck, old man," he shouted, "I'll see you in Paris.

Lindbergh only grinned.

A great cheer rose from the packed thousands of watchers on the field, who were held back by heavy police detachments, as the silver colored plane, glittering in the faint sun which

MOTHER'S LOVE AND GOD-SPEED ARE WITH DARING DETROIT PILOT AS HE WINGS WAY ACROSS OCEAN

DETROIT, May 20.—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, 25-year-old "flying fool" has a mother's love and God-speed as he wings his way on the 3,600-mile non-stop trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris.

Notified today by the International News Service of her son's hop-off, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, chemistry teacher at Cass Technical High school, said:

"Oh, thank you very much for the information. "My heart and soul is in his work, and I am praying he succeeds."

"Kid Flier's" Take off Praised.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Captain Charles Lindbergh's take-off this morning on his flight to Paris appeared clumsy and inexpert to the average citizen watching the event, but fliers at the field were profuse in their praise of the "kid flier's" manipulation of his heavily loaded plane over a muddy runway.

"It was beautifully done," said Commander Richard Byrd, who is preparing to take off on a similar flight in his giant Fokker. "Captain Lindbergh knew just what he was doing every minute. God be with him on this trip. He'll probably get there all right. After that take-off I believe he can do anything with his ship.

"He has plenty of gas. It will hold out five hours longer than the thirty-seven he plans to be in the air.

"Never in all my years of flying have I seen such a take-off. It looked as if it would be impossible to lift the plane off the ground. It was marvelous."

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—The Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" will be withdrawn from the New York-Paris race if Captain Charles Lindbergh successfully completes the non-stop 3,600 mile flight which he started this morning, an official fo the Columbia Aircraft corporation announced today.

"We wish Lindbergh all the luck in the world," he said, "and if he makes the flight to Paris we will not attempt it. If he should fail the 'Columbia' is ready to start."

Traffic Jams Force Planning Commission To Build Tunnels

ST. LOUIS.—Traffic conditions in the neighborhood of many schools in this city have become so hazardous that a system of tunnels beneath the streets for pedestrian traffic has been authorized by the City Plan Commission.

The tunnels would eliminate the necessity of school children risking their lives in crossing streets through traffic. Points where fatal accidents have occurred would be the first to have the tunnels constructed.

A room so sound-proof that in it the opening and closing of the eye may be heard, has been constructed in a London hospital.

DOUG MACLEAN AT CERAMIC

"Let It Rain" Latest Paramount Comedy Hit.

"Let It Rain," Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount comedy, takes the lad with the million dollar smile from Africa's jungles (remember "Hold That Lion?") and places him aboard one of Uncle Sam's ships as a United States Marine. Strange as it may seem, the title really has a bearing on the story.

Doug is introduced as a happy-go-lucky devil-dog who just doesn't give a darn about anything. If the sun shines, that's fine; if it's so foggy, one can't see two feet in front of him, stay indoors; and if the rain starts falling, why—let it rain! So, his pals nickname him "Let-it-Rain" Riley.

Oh yes, there's a girl. In fact, she's a very nice girl. You've seen her before—Shirley Mason. "It" happens when Shirley comes aboard one day and Doug falls for her. He falls for her both figuratively and literally. You see, the marines have trained the navy mascot to butt anyone who leans over and Miss Mason proceeds to pick up her bag, whereupon "Let-It-Rain" makes a flying tackle, offsets the goat and lands at Shirley's feet.

Nice way to start a romance? You said it! Funny way to uncork the laughs? Impossible to stop 'em! Of course, you may disagree with all of this, but if you've got a sense of humor, "Let It Rain" shouldn't be missed. Even if you have a hard time laughing, come on down anyway. Who can tell, you might change a life-long habit? The picture's at the Ceramic theatre and so're your old marines.

Evangeline's People

One of the many remarkable "angles" of that tremendous Mississippi flood is its reawakening of interest in Longfellow's poem "Exangeline" and the race it represented.

Those who have read that sad, haunting poem in their youth may recall how the simple, pious Acadian peasants were expelled from Nova Scotia in 1755 when they had refused to take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain, and how, like so many leaves whirled by the wind, they were driven to the British colonies to the south, and many of them, still refusing to live under British sovereignty, continued their pilgrimage until they found refuge in the French colony of Louisiana. There, in a very different climate and environment, they settled, re-established their homes and customs, and have continued almost as a separate people until this day.

Now the flood scatters them forth from their homes again. There is no persecution now, save that of pitiless nature. They are harbored in refuge camps and befriended in many ways. But their farms are overwhelmed, their houses are gone, their stock is drowned. They will go back eventually to a sea of mud. They must start all over again.

There is talk now of erecting a statute of Evangeline, the symbol of their past, near the Mississippi. Such a statue stands already at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, their old home. That would be an appropriate thing, and should be well supported by more fortunate Americans. But sympathy for those Acadian-Americans should go much further than that, in practical ways.

Oil Thrift and Waste

The oil refining industry is surprisingly efficient, but the oil industry as a whole is shamefully wasteful.

Ten years ago refiners were getting 21 gallons of gasoline out of every 100 gallons of crude oil, and thought they were doing very well. Last year they got 34.7 ballons of gasoline out of every 100 of oil, and are doing still better now. By the "cracking" process they have nearly doubled the percentage of gasoline extracted. One barrel of oil will go nearly as far, for automobile use, as two barrels went in 1917.

But in this same period gasoline consumption has increased more than four times, requiring more than twice as much crude petroleum as it did in 1917. So we're not saving petroleum. It is being drawn out of the ground now at the rate of nearly 2,500,000 barrels a day.

How long will the supply last? To that everlasting question no answer can be given. Nobody knows. New fields discovered every little while give the lie to old estimates. But one thing sure—the earth is not full of oil.

Shale oil, when we fall back on that, will be harder to extract, and will cost more. Then when we fall back on coal products for internal combustion engines, the stuff will cost still more.

Explosive fuel is probably cheaper now than it ever will be again. Yet not only are we burning it up as if the supply was illimitable as air, but the producers are leaving about four-fifths of it in the ground, in such condition that we may never be able to salvage much of it.

Small Houses, Good And Bad

Henry Wright, chairman of the committee on city planning of the American Institute of Architects, is quoted as saying that New York suffers from "a scourge of small-house building that is an absolute disgrace to any city."

It is not the size of the houses to which he objects. The ideal small house, set in its own small yard, big enough for the average family, but small enough to be efficiently and inexpensively cared for, pleasing in appearance and sound in construction, is recognized as having an important place in meeting family housing needs.

The small house scourge refers to cheap houses, often constituting a serious fire hazard, put up in a series along a whole block, uniformly ugly in design, made of poor materials, and ready for repairs almost before they have been lived in.

Too many American cities know this scourge from their own experience. It is not confined to the metropolis or other big cities. Architects and builders can perform a valuable public service by co-operating in the solution of the small house problem—eliminating the cheap, ugly sort and encouraging the construction of the well-built, pleasing variety.

Making America Musical

When Walter Damrosch retired last winter from his position as conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, he did not retire from all musical activity. It was recently announced that he is to act as musical counsel to the National Broadcasting company and that he will give a radio course of instruction in music.

It is a step toward the fulfilment of Mr. Damrosch's own prediction that the American people will become "the most musical in the world."

In addition to his knowledge of music and his ability to speak simply and interestingly to people who know very little about it, Mr. Damrosch has also an infectious enthusiasm which inspires his listeners. With his reputation, his ability and his enthusiasm all enlisted on the side of music appreciation for the many, it may be taken as a foregone concluson that education along this line will make much progress in the coming year.

PARIS, May 20.—Parisian night life is about an hectic as that in Ft. Wayne, Ind. The great Montmartre jazz cafes are dying off like flies in winter. Saves for Belli's where business is far from good, there is not enough to keep one ordinary-sized place going.

The season for high jinks is here, but customers are skittish. Even those assured and enameled ladies who sit about at tables to wink at gullible dotards and induce them to buy wine, and who give the impression of sin coiling under silk, have deserted. The graft was too thin.

In one of the brocaded spots of smug slipperiness that used to be packed to capacity, I counted seven customers last night. Two were obviously timid ladies palpitating with the idea that they were about to see wickedness at its worst.

As I departed the proprietor, whom I have long known, shook his head sadly and said: "This can't go on!" In New York night life is supposed to have withered because of high prices. It seems more likely the jazz idea has spent itself. Paris proves it.

Thrill seekers all over the world are apparently demanding a new deal. Those vaselined young pathological and sadistic gigolos who danced their attendance at so much per dance, have vanished. I saw only two in the entire rounds of Montmartre and their spruce air had become seedy.

Many Broadway night club artists, imported for what was expected to be a lively season, have met with curt dismissals. The proprietors merely pointed to the empty tables with a deprecatory shrug. And there is no hope in London.

The theatres are faring almost as badly. The tarnished revue as the Folies Bergere draws an audience nightly about as large as the Punch and Judy shows along the Champs Elysees. Salaries are at their lowest ebb. The highest paid performer in France is the aging but popular Mistinguett, who receives $100 a day.

Georges Carpentier, the fighter, has turned Thespian and is dancing and singing in a revue that features Florence Walton. He is in the discard now as a pugilist, but France does not forget its idols. He passed in front of the sidewalk tables of the Cafe de la Paix today and all stood up to give him a rousing cheer.

The most distinct impression one receives after a year's absence from France is stagnation. There is something lethargic in the stores, cafes and among the people. The tourist is not besieged by the usual swarm of door to door vendors. There is no coaxing to make sales. The attitude is that of a people who having done their best wait for something to happen. It is not pleasant.

In front of one of the little circular bars today in the rue des Petit-Champs a street acrobat in patched and faded tights unrolled his strip of carpet and in a bored manner went through his contortions. In bending backward to pick up a handkerchief with his teeth he suddenly collapsed like a slowly deflating balloon and laid still. The bar maid rushed out with a pony of brandy which revived him and he moved on. "Faim!" explained the bar maid. He was exhausted from hunger.

Paris, of course, has not lost its sparkle and nerve entirely. During the tea hour in the Ritz open gardens one sees the fine ladies and the monocled dandies. The flirtatious and the audacious. American millionaires and expatriated divorcees. And always Count Boni de Castellane.

Boni is still a fashion plate with military bearing, curly hair thinned on top, ruddy cheeked and with a rose in his lapel. His English is without an accent. He seems neat and innocuous. Something of a thwarted Romeo fatigued by innumerable and inadequate Juliets.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cause of Flood Disasters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—The early Egyptians worshipped the great god Ra, the beetle, because, although insignificant in size and a mere insect, his perseverance and numbers enable him to reduce to nothingness some of the greatest works of man. In like manner the people of the Mississippi valley might worship the crawfish for this creature has inundated cities, destroyed many lives, and millions of property.

The crawfish is a water creature but also has a habit of burrowing in the earth banks of the streams it inhabits. The United States Weather Bureau in the course of investigations by its flood division, has discovered that crawfish have burrowed straight through thick levees. This permits a seepage of water to pass.

On account of the strong lateral pressure which exists when the river is at flood stage, the seepage soon becomes a trickle, the trickle soon becomes a stream, and, if undiscovered, the undermining process will cause a section of the bank to give way, letting through a flow of waters which quickly becomes a torrent developing a crevasse which will inundate hundreds of thousands of acres of land, drown cities, and take the lives of human beings and animals. It is all started by the humble crawfish.

Patrols are maintained on the Mississippi river levee banks to watch for just such things, but occasionally the crawfish wins. It is not likely that any malice may be imputed to the creature but, none the less, tremendous damage is caused.

The Weather Bureau's investigations show that breaks causing such floods as have been devastating the Mississippi basin this year are by no means all caused by the water rising to a stage which overtops the levees. Besides the crawfish there is another insidious enemy. It is called a sand boil.

In effect the sand boil is merely a spring. When the river level is higher than the surrounding land and is only held in its bed by the levees, there is a natural tendency for the water to seek its level outside as well as inside of the levees. If the soil is sufficiently porous, the water will press through the banks and boil up as a spring on the landward side. At first there are but a few bubbles. These grow until there is a steady flow through a sort of tunnel in the levee. If not checked, the whole earth structure above the tunnel is undermined, the earth falls in and is carried away, and the waters sweep through, constantly widening the opening.

How To Cure Sand Boils.

Engineers have discovered that there is but one way to stop these sand boils. It is impossible to plug them up but a successful method has been found. A circular dike is built around the sand boil or spring. This is raised to a height a few inches above the level of the river itself. The spring then rises within this circular enclosure to the height of the river level on the other side of the levee but no farther. If the river continues to rise, the circular wall must be raised higher.

All this must be done in the early stages of the development of the sand boil or the undermining will have gone too far and the break will come. So long as the water is coming through a tunnel, the method is successful but not after a breach has been made.

The Weather Bureau has been studying floods for many years and has accumulated much valuable data concerning them.. The general opinion among the experts is that, since the forests have been cut from the banks and therefore there is no local absorption, they are inevitable. Many schemes for flood prevention have been brought to the Bureau, but none has been found practicable, although it is thought that perhaps a combination of several methods might reduce the damage.

One difficulty in the solution of the problem is that all floods are not alike. This year's flood is unlike any great flood which previously has come under the observation of the Bureau. It was brought about by a combination of two causes. First, last year was one of unusual moisture in the Mississippi Basin. As late as last December there were very heavy rains. These saturated the ground to a point where it would hold no more water. That meant that further rain water would immediately drain off into the rivers. Second, this spring saw unusually heavy rains over the largest tributary river of the Mississippi. Usually such rains are scattered and the water is distributed among many streams.

A common cause of floods is the rapid melting of snows at headwaters of tributary streams. The melted snow comes down in torrents and swells the Father of Waters to flood stage. In such cases, it would be possible to impound these melting snows at the source, the headwaters, keeping the water in great reservoirs and using it for power or irrigation. Weather Bureau officials point out that such reservoirs would have been wholly ineffective in this flood as it has not come from the headwaters at all; in fact, most of the streams have no floods at all save near their confluence with the Mississippi.

Various Plans Considered.

Reforestation of the banks and the maintenance and constant improvement of the levees, together with control at the source in cases where floods start at headwaters, would reduce the flood danger, but a really great flood is so tremendous a force that many experts regard it as beyond control of man. The construction of great basins along the course of the river has been suggested, but the experts regard this as chimerical. One tentative survey has been made looking to such a plan with the result that an estimated cost of ten billions of dollars was reached. There the idea was abandoned; it would be cheaper to have the floods.

Flood experts and dwellers in the flood region are inclined, with some justification, to sneer at fanciful suggestions made by outsiders for flood control. When it is realized that the river, in this flood, has reached a width of 80 miles at one point at least and flows at the rate of 1,750,000 cubic feet per second, the control by human agencies seems out of the question.

With the counsel of the Weather Bureau and the Army engineers to aid them, the river people are constantly improving the dikes. The most important types of soil are being sought. In some places mattings are used to fortify loose soil and Bermuda grass is being planted. This grass has a long root which has a tendency to intertwine, making a dense network calculated to hold the earth together.

The problem is no small one. Congress unquestionably will be called upon to cope with it at the next session and many schemes, some of them highly fantastic, are expected to be presented in the form of bills.

Approximately a billion dollars in loss and damage has resulted from the Mississippi floods of the last quarter of a century. The 1913 flood alone cost $163,000,000. The Weather Bureau states that 25 per cent can safely be added to reported losses to cover what have not been reported and the potential and speculative losses. What the cost of the present flood will prove it is too early to estimate, but it will run far in excess of any previous one.

"If you'll wait just a minute or two," counsels Percy, his eye roving uneasily from the conductor's approaching form to some small object which the charmed holds in her hand.

"Say," demands Harold, "is there any reason why you don't want to introduce me to that girl? Anything wrong about me? Anything wrong about her?"

"Certainly not, Harold," says Percy in hurt tones; "but if you must know, I'm waiting until she pays her fare."

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cause of Flood Disasters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—The early Egyptians worshipped the great god Ra, the beetle, because, although insignificant in size and a mere insect, his perseverance and numbers enable him to reduce to nothingness some of the greatest works of man. In like manner the people of the Mississippi valley might worship the crawfish for this creature has inundated cities, destroyed many lives, and millions of property.

The crawfish is a water creature but also has a habit of burrowing in the earth banks of the streams it inhabits. The United States Weather Bureau in the course of investigations by its flood division, has discovered that crawfish have burrowed straight through thick levees. This permits a seepage of water to pass.

On account of the strong lateral pressure which exists when the river is at flood stage, the seepage soon becomes a trickle, the trickle soon becomes a stream, and, if undiscovered, the undermining process will cause a section of the bank to give way, letting through a flow of waters which quickly becomes a torrent developing a crevasse which will inundate hundreds of thousands of acres of land, drown cities, and take the lives of human beings and animals. It is all started by the humble crawfish.

Patrols are maintained on the Mississippi river levee banks to watch for just such things, but occasionally the crawfish wins. It is not likely that any malice may be imputed to the creature but, none the less, tremendous damage is caused.

The Weather Bureau's investigations show that breaks causing such floods as have been devastating the Mississippi basin this year are by no means all caused by the water rising to a stage which overtops the levees. Besides the crawfish there is another insidious enemy. It is called a sand boil.

In effect the sand boil is merely a spring. When the river level is higher than the surrounding land and is only held in its bed by the levees, there is a natural tendency for the water to seek its level outside as well as inside of the levees. If the soil is sufficiently porous, the water will press through the banks and boil up as a spring on the landward side. At first there are but a few bubbles. These grow until there is a steady flow through a sort of tunnel in the levee. If not checked, the whole earth structure above the tunnel is undermined, the earth falls in and is carried away, and the waters sweep through, constantly widening the opening.

How To Cure Sand Boils.

Engineers have discovered that there is but one way to stop these sand boils. It is impossible to plug them up but a successful method has been found. A circular dike is built around the sand boil or spring. This is raised to a height a few inches above the level of the river itself. The spring then rises within this circular enclosure to the height of the river level on the other side of the levee but no farther. If the river continues to rise, the circular wall must be raised higher.

All this must be done in the early stages of the development of the sand boil or the undermining will have gone too far and the break will come. So long as the water is coming through a tunnel, the method is successful but not after a breach has been made.

The Weather Bureau has been studying floods for many years and has accumulated much valuable data concerning them.. The general opinion among the experts is that, since the foreests have been cut from the banks and therefore there is no local absorption, they are inevitable. Many schemes for flood prevention have been brought to the Bureau, but none has been found practicable, although it is thought that perhaps a combination of several methods might reduce the damage.

One difficulty in the solution of the problem is that all floods are not alike. This year's flood is unlike any great flood which previously has come under the observation of the Bureau. It was brought about by a combination of two causes. First, last year was one of unusual moisture in the Mississippi Basin. As late as last December there were very heavy rains. These saturated the ground to a point where it would hold no more water. That meant that further rain water would immediately drain off into the rivers. Second, this spring saw unusually heavy rains over the largest tributary river of the Mississippi. Usually such rains are scattered and the water is distributed among many streams.

A common cause of floods is the rapid melting of snows at headwaters of tributary streams. The melted snow comes down in torrents and swells the Father of Waters to flood stage. In such cases, it would be possible to impound these melting snows at the source, the headwaters, keeping the water in great reservoirs and using it for power or irrigation. Weather Bureau officials point out that such reservoirs would have been wholly ineffective in this flood as it has not come from the headwaters at all; in fact, most of the streams have no floods at all save near their confluence with the Mississippi.

Various Plans Considered.

Reforestation of the banks and the maintenance and constant improvement of the levees, together with control at the source in cases where floods start at headwaters, would reduce the flood danger, but a really great flood is so tremendous a force that many experts regard it as beyond control of man. The construction of great basins along the course of the river has been suggested, but the experts regard this as chimerical. One tentative survey has been made looking to such a plan with the result that an estimated cost of ten billions of dollars was reached. There the idea was abandoned; it would be cheaper to have the floods.

Flood experts and dwellers in the flood region are inclined, with some justification, to sneer at fanciful suggestions made by outsiders for flood control. When it is realized that the river, in this flood, has reached a width of 80 miles at one point at least and flows at the rate of 1,750,000 cubic feet per second, the control by human agencies seems out of the question.

With the counsel of the Weather Bureau and the Army engineers to aid them, the river people are constantly improving the dikes. The most important types of soil are being sought. In some places mattings are used to fortify loose soil and Bermuda grass is being planted. This grass has a long root which has a tendency to intertwine, making a dense network calculated to hold the earth together.

The problem is no small one. Congress unquestionably will be called upon to cope with it at the next session and many schemes, some of them highly fantastic, are expected to be presented in the form of bills.

Approximately a billion dollars in loss and damage has resulted from the Mississippi floods of the last quarter of a century. The 1913 flood alone cost $163,000,000. The Weather Bureau states that 25 per cent can safely be added to reported losses to cover what have not been reported and the potential and speculative losses. What the cost of the present flood will prove it is too early to estimate, but it will run far in excess of any previous one.

British Death Rate Steadily Decreasing; Figures Made Public

LONDON.—According to the latest statistics of the London County Council, London—Sometimes described as the healthiest big city in the world—is becoming healthier still.

The death-rate appears to be slowly but steadily falling. In 1840 it was 30 per 1000. In 1841 it dropped to 21 per 1000. Then in 1854 it jumped to more than 29, and for years after wards never fell below 21 per 1000.

But the big improvement in London drainage, which began about 1880, and the passing of the Public Health Act in 1891, were factors that soon began to tell very forcibly, and by 1905 the death rate had fallen to about 15 per 1,000. This was about the average of the war. Since the war there has been a steady decline.

DESCRIBES WORK OF LEGION MEN

Importance of converting insurance before July 2, next, was stressed by Rev. Edward Gracey, of Wellsville, national chaplain of the "40 and 8," an ex-service men's organization, in an address Wednesday night before members of St. Mihiel American Legion post, Toronto.

Rev. Gracey was a guest of honor at a dinner and program given by the Toronto organization.

His address dealt largely with the Legion, its aims and ideals and the reason every ex-service man should be a member. He pointed out that the two outstanding efforts of the Legion were the care of disabled buddies and the orphans of those who died. He called attention to the fact that the billions of dollars at present being expended for hospitalization and the soldiers' bonus were obtained chiefly through the efforts of the Legion.

GEO. WOODWARD ON HONOR ROLL

The name of George Woodward, of Wellsville, a Pennsylvania railroad blacksmith, recently was placed on the Pennsy "Honor Roll" as the veteran retired from active service.

Mr. Woodward was born in Salineville, Ohio, December 23, 1860, and started his working career as a coal miner in that district, working in that capacity for several years. Anxious to change his position, Mr. Woodward decided to try railroading, and entered the Pennsylvania Railroad service, February 1, 1886, as a blacksmith helper at Wellsville shops, Ohio. He resigned February 16, 1899, to accept a similar employment with the P. & L.E. railroad at McKees Rocks, Pa. Again the lure of the Pennsy service called him and he re-entered the service November 2, 1899, being promoted to blacksmith, January 1, 1902, serving in that capacity until his retirement.

Mr. Woodward married Mary J Faloon of Salineville, Ohio, on May 6, 1886. They have two children, Carlisle, employed as a machinist, Wellsville, Ohio, and George Allen, at home.

Woodward is a member of the Presbyterian church and fraternally affiliated with the Loyal Order of Moose.

DESCRIBES WORK OF LEGION MEN

Importance of converting insurance before July 2, next, was stressed by Rev. Edward Gracey, of Wellsville, national chaplain of the "40 and 8," an ex-service men's organization, in an address Wednesday night before members of St. Mihiel American Legion post, Toronto.

Rev. Gracey was a guest of honor at a dinner and program given by the Toronto organization.

His address dealt largely with the Legion, its aims and ideals and the reason every ex-service man should be a member. He pointed out that the two outstanding efforts of the Legion were the care of disabled buddies and the orphans of those who died. He called attention to the fact that the billions of dollars at present being expended for hospitalization and the soldiers' bonus were obtained chiefly through the efforts of the Legion.

CLEAN-UP JOB EXTENDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

City Trucks Collect Rubbish Accumulation in East End.

WORK DIVIDED

No Second Trips Will be Made, Says J. W. Moore.

Because of inclement weather conditions annual Spring Clean-up campaign, which was to have started here last Monday, has been carried over until next week.

Four street department trucks were sent to East End today to remove cans, ashes and similar refuse matter. All material, collected from cellars, back yards and alleys must be placed in boxes or other receptacles where it can be reached by the trucks, which will pass along every street.

The East End will be thoroughly covered today and Saturday. Beginning Monday, the Second ward will be visited for two days. The Third ward will then be canvassed on Wednesday and Thursday, while the last two days of the week will be spent in the Fourth ward.

No second trips will be made to any part of the city by the trucks, according to an agreement between Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore and health board officials, co-operating in the campaign.

Sanitary Inspectors McKeever and Hill will follow the trucks to see that the clean-up orders are carried out. Instructions for the abatement of unsanitary conditions will be issued in cases where there has been no attempt at clean-up.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

The Seeley Co's. expert, of Chicago, will personally be at the Travelers hotel, and will remain in East Liverpool Wednesday only, May 25. Mr. Seeley says:

The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. Our expert will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit you if desired. WORLD'S TONIC ACTS LIKE MAGIC, HE SAYS

Visitor Declares Results Are Wonderful, and Buys Six Bottles.

The World's Tonic druggist was busily engaged recently explaining World's Tonic, when a tall, well dressed man entered the drug store. Engaging the druggist in conversation, the visitor said:

"I am here for the races, and I came to tell you that World's Tonic is really a most wonderful medicine. I want to buy six bottles today, and I want to pay for them now before I go out to the races because I may lose every dollar I have out there. If anything like that happens, I will have the medicine, and believe me, it is worth more to me than money.

"A friend who knew how I had suffered from catarrh of my stomach, sent me two bottles. I must say that it acted more like magic than medicine

"I had been troubled with a dripping mucous from head and throat. It was worse in the fall and winter. Some of the mucous entered my stomach and then my stomach became affected. Food lay in my stomach hours undigested. I suffered from fullness after meals, short breath, dizziness and colic pains. I had pains in the small of my back and under my shoulder blades.

"The truth is that the first bottle of World's Tonic helped me very little, but by the time half of the second bottle was gone I could see that I was improving in every way, and now since taking two full bottles I feel so much better that I want six more."

World's Tonic sold by Carnahans, also Brannon, Wellsville, and all other reliable druggists, at $1.00 per bottle.

The East End will be thoroughly covered today and Saturday. Beginning Monday, the Second ward will be visited for two days. The Third ward will then be canvassed on Wednesday and Thursday, while the last two days of the week will be spent in the Fourth ward.

No second trips will be made to any part of the city by the trucks, according to an agreement between Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore and health board officials, co-operating in the campaign.

Sanitary Inspectors McKeever and Hill will follow the trucks to see that the clean-up orders are carried out. Instructions for the abatement of unsanitary conditions will be issued in cases where there has been no attempt at clean-up.

His scarf catching in the machinery of his auto, which he was repairing, D. J. H. Seymoure was choked to death in his garage in London recently.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

The Seeley Co's. expert, of Chicago, will personally be at the Travelers hotel, and will remain in East Liverpool Wednesday only, May 25. Mr. Seeley says:

The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. Our expert will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit you if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

WORLD'S TONIC ACTS LIKE MAGIC, HE SAYS

Visitor Declares Results Are Wonderful, and Buys Six Bottles.

The World's Tonic druggist was busily engaged recently explaining World's Tonic, when a tall, well dressed man entered the drug store. Engaging the druggist in conversation, the visitor said:

"I am here for the races, and I came to tell you that World's Tonic is really a most wonderful medicine. I want to buy six bottles today, and I want to pay for them now before I go out to the races because I may lose every dollar I have out there. If anything like that happens, I will have the medicine, and believe me, it is worth more to me than money.

"A friend who knew how I had suffered from catarrh of my stomach, sent me two bottles. I must say that it acted more like magic than medicine.

"I had been troubled with a dripping mucous from head and throat. It was worse in the fall and winter. Some of the mucous entered my stomach and then my stomach became affected. Food lay in my stomach hours undigested. I suffered from fullness after meals, short breath, dizziness and colic pains. I had pains in the small of my back and under my shoulder blades.

"The truth is that the first bottle of World's Tonic helped me very little, but by the time half of the second bottle was gone I could see that I was improving in every way, and now since taking two full bottles I feel so much better that I want six more."

World's Tonic sold by Carnahans, also Brannon, Wellsville, and all other reliable druggists, at $1.00 per bottle.

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non-stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a look-out for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forced down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Tberle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

Leslie Curran Now Regular Patrolman; Schenkel Extra Man

Leslie Curran, a special patrolman for more than a year, is now a "regular" on East Liverpool's 10-man force.

Curran who was the high applicant among those who took the civil service examination several weeks ago, was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum about a month ago, the appointment becoming effective May 16.

Curran will receive $140 per month during his first year of service after which he will be paid $150.

Elwyn Schenkel will serve as the extra man.

LEGION POPPY SALE SATURDAY

Rain Interfered With Campaign Last Week.

Silk popples will be sold upon the streets in East Liverpool again tomorrow under the auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion.

Rain interfered with the campaign last Saturday, and as a result more than 2,000 of the 6,000 flowers were unsold. A little less than $400 was cleared during the day.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson, who had charge of the workers last Saturday, will again be Poppy Day chairlady tomorrow. Tomorrow's sale will be conducted by a group of 25 girls and women. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 have been underwritten for the three workers who collect the largest amount during the day.

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Little building. Workers have been requested to report to Mrs. Johnson at 9 a. m.

25 ARE ABOARD GROUNDED SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—With water rapidly filling the after hold, 25 members of the crew of the grounded Indiana Harbor were in peril of their lives today. The freighter, bound from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., went aground on Point Gorda, 10 miles north of here. Hope of saving the vessel has been abandoned.

Three vessels, standing by, have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to rescue the crew. Wind and wave prevented use of breeches buoys or the launching of life boats.

HANKOW FALLS, BURNING REPORT

SHANGHAI, May 20.—Many sensational and unconfirmed reports regarding Hankow were in circulation here today.

One report is that Hankow has been captured and is burning.

"Lucky" Lindbergh

compass. And he knows instinctively whether his direction is right.

His flying philosophy is simple. He wants to go to Paris. He figures out its direction. And off he goes—in a bee line.

Simplicity Itself.

There are no trimmings for the boy (he is only 25 and looks much younger). He has no publicity agents to herald his approach and his departure. He attends no banquets, makes no speeches, and does not allow the plaudits of an admiring world to turn his head.

He is the hero of adventure come to life.

He is almost too good to be true.

The Atlantic ocean is just a "big pan of water" to him. He needs no special provisioning—just "a bag of sandwiches and some water."

He was just a smalle timer in the field of aviation — a commercial pilot who got his training in a school only four years ago; then a "barnstormer" of the air doing tricks at country carnivals, then an air mail pilot — and now a World Hope, bent on conquering the elements which have claimed so many noble explorers of the air the past weeks.

On the field he is just a kid—open-eyed and diffident. In the air he is a master.

May the Powers That Be heed the prayers of a lonely mother in Detroit and spare this hero from the untimely end of so many of his flying brothers.

DENY AIRPLANE WRECKAGE IS "WHITE BIRD"

Piece of Fuselage is Towed Into New London.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane,' said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued, however.

Lindbergh Starts

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manoeuvers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

MINE WORKER'S FOOT CRUSHED

W. Andrew Walters, 24, residing at 116 Second street, Midland, was brought to the City hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, suffering from a badly crushed right foot sustained in an accident at the plant of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, Midland, shortly before noon.

He received first aid treatment at the mill emergency hospital and was then brought here in the Dennis ambulance. He was attended by Drs. J. A. Helfrich, Midland, and R. J. Marshall.

KIWANIS CLUB MEMBERS VISIT STEUBENVILLE

High School Band Accompanies Delegation of 60.

VISITORS PARADE

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Lectonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances. Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacuair course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simbalia property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming." Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the balance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

SINCLAIR GETS JAIL SENTENCE, BUT APPEALS

Multi-millionaire Oil Magnate Also Fined $500.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a lookout for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forced down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Tberle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

Leslie Curran Now Regular Patrolman; Schenkel Extra Man

Leslie Curran, a special patrolman for more than a year, is now a "regular" on East Liverpool's 10-man force.

Curran who was the high applicant among those who took the civil service examination several weeks ago, was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum about a month ago, the appointment becoming effective May 16.

Curran will receive $140 per month during his first year of service after which he will be paid $150.

Elwyn Schenkel will serve as the extra man.

LEGION POPPY SALE SATURDAY

Rain Interfered With Campaign Last Week.

Silk poppies will be sold upon the streets in East Liverpool again tomorrow under the auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion.

Rain interfered with the campaign last Saturday, and as a result more than 2,000 of the 6,000 flowers were unsold. A little less than $400 was cleared during the day.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson, who had charge of the workers last Saturday, will again be Poppy Day chairlady tomorrow. Tomorrow's sale will be conducted by a group of 25 girls and women. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 have been underwritten for the three workers who collect the largest amount during the day.

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Little building. Workers have been requested to report to Mrs. Johnson at 9 a. m.

25 ARE ABOARD GROUNDED SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—With water rapidly filling the after hold, 25 members of the crew of the grounded Indiana Harbor were in peril of their lives today. The freighter, bound from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., went aground on Point Gorda, 10 miles north of here. Hope of saving the vessel has been abandoned.

Three vessels, standing by, have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to rescue the crew. Wind and wave prevented use of breeches buoys or the launching of life boats.

HANKOW FALLS, BURNING REPORT

SHANGHAI, May 20.—Many sensational and unconfirmed reports regarding Hankow were in circulation here today.

One report is that Hankow has been captured and is burning.

"Lucky" Lindbergh

compass. And he knows instinctively whether his direction is right.

His flying philosophy is simple. He wants to go to Paris. He figures out its direction. And off he goes—in a bee line.

Simplicity Itself.

There are no trimmings for the boy (he is only 25 and looks much younger). He has no publicity agents to herald his approach and his departure. He attends no banquets, makes no speeches, and does not allow the plaudits of an admiring world to turn his head.

He is the hero of adventure come to life.

He is almost too good to be true.

The Atlantic ocean is just a "big pan of water" to him. He needs no special provisioning—just "a bag of sandwiches and some water."

He was just a smalle timer in the field of aviation — a commercial pilot who got his training in a school only four years ago; then a "barnstormer" of the air doing tricks at country carnivals, then an air mail pilot — and now a World Hope, bent on conquering the elements which have claimed so many noble explorers of the air the past weeks.

On the field he is just a kid—open-eyed and diffident. In the air he is a master.

May the Powers That Be heed the prayers of a lonely mother in Detroit and spare this hero from the untimely end of so many of his flying brothers.

DENY AIRPLANE WRECKAGE IS "WHITE BIRD"

Piece of Fuselage is Towed Into New London.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane," said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued, however.

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manoeuvers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

MINE WORKER'S FOOT CRUSHED

W. Andrew Walters, 24, residing at 116 Second street, Midland, was brought to the City hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, suffering from a badly crushed right foot sustained in an accident at the plant of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, Midland, shortly before noon.

He received first aid treatment at the mill emergency hospital and was then brought here in the Dennis ambulance. He was attended by Drs. J. A. Helfrich, Midland, and R. J. Marshall.

KIWANIS CLUB MEMBERS VISIT STEUBENVILLE

High School Band Accompanies Delegation of 60.

VISITORS PARADE

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances. Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacualr course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

City Council Meet

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simballa property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service-safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming," Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the balance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

SINCLAIR GETS JAIL SENTENCE, BUT APPEALS

Multi-millionaire Oil Magnate Also Fined $500.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

So perfectly in accord with thie easy freedom of Summer's lovely garment styles — no wonder then that the sandal becomes a leading style for summer.

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non-stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a look-out for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forced down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Therle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

Rain Interfered With Campaign Last Week.

Silk poppies will be sold upon the streets in East Liverpool again tomorrow under the auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion.

Rain interfered with the campaign last Saturday, and as a result more than 2,000 of the 6,000 flowers were unsold. A little less than $100 was cleared during the day.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson, who had charge of the workers last Saturday, will again be Poppy Day chairlady tomorrow. Tomorrow's sale will be conducted by a group of 25 girls and women. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 have been underwritten for the three workers who collect the largest amount during the day.

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Little building. Workers have been requested to report to Mrs. Johnson at 9 a. m.

25 ARE ABOARD GROUNDED SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—With water rapidly filling the after hold, 25 members of the crew of the grounded Indiana Harbor were in peril of their lives today. The freighter, bound from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., went aground on Point Gorda, 10 miles north of here. Hope of saving the vessel has been abandoned.

Three vessels, standing by, have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to rescue the crew. Wind and wave prevented use of breeches buoys or the launching of life boats.

May the Powers That Be heed the prayers of a lonely mother in Detroit and spare this hero from the untimely end of so many of his flying brothers.

DENY AIRPLANE WRECKAGE IS "WHITE BIRD"

Piece of Fuselage is Towed Into New London.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane," said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued, however.

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manoeuvers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances. Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacular course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

City Council Meet

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simballa property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming," Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the balance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

SINCLAIR GETS JAIL SENTENCE, BUT APPEALS

Multi-millionaire Oil Magnate Also Fined $500.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non-stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a lookout for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forced down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Therle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane," said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued however.

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manoeuvers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

MINE WORKER'S FOOT CRUSHED

W. Andrew Walters, 24, residing at 116 Second street, Midland, was brought to the City hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, suffering from a badly crushed right foot sustained in an accident at the plant of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, Midland, shortly before noon.

He received first aid treatment at the mill emergency hospital and was then brought here in the Dennis ambulance. He was attended by Drs. J. A. Helfrich, Midland, and R. J. Marshall.

KIWANIS CLUB MEMBERS VISIT STEUBENVILLE

High School Band Accompanies Delegation of 60.

VISITORS PARADE

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Lectonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances, Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacuair course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simballa property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming," Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the balance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

SINCLAIR GETS JAIL SENTENCE, BUT APPEALS

Multi-millionaire Oil Magnate Also Fined $500.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

MARION NIXON AT THE STRAND

"Down The Stretch" is Thrilling Drama of Turf.

There is more drama enacted behind the grand stand than before it, and that is the drama which goes to make "Down the Stretch," the Universal Jewel production, which opens an engagement at the Strand theatre today.

Not that King Baggot has not provided a thrilling horse race in his picturization of Gerald Beaumont's last story of the turf for he has, but it is the human drama that takes place out of sight of the paying public that "Down the Stretch" is rich and different.

Jockeys are not always whipping their horses across the finish line as winners nor do they wear their bright silks to dinner. The little fellows who ride the big thoroughbreds have hearts and troubles and joys the same as those who crowd the stands on derby day.

Gerald Beaumont, the greatest master of sporting stories the world has known, penned a gripping story of just these moments in "Down The Stretch" and King Baggot faithfully depicted it on the screen.

The cast, one of the strongest ever assembled by Universal, is headed by those two sterling young players, Marian Nixon and Robert Agnew and includes Ward Crane, Ena Gregory, Ben Hall, Jack Daugherty, Virginia True Boardman and Lincoln Plummer.

French or foreign firms in France who wish to employ workers not of French nationality must now get government permission to do so.

CARD OF THANKS.

I desire to thank my many friends for their words of sympathy and deeds of kindness at the time of the sickness and death of my beloved wife. Especially do I thank those who gave flowers and tendered the use of their cars, Rev. J. G. Reinartz and Rev. L. S. Rose for their comforting messages; Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Glen for their inspiring music.

YANKEES WITH TROOPS IN ORIENT MUST STUDY CHINESE LANGUAGE

WASHINGTON. — New woes have been stored up for the doughboy officers stationed with the 15th Infantry at Tientsin, China. Now they must learn to converse in Chinese, and the difficulty of this task may readily be inferred from the fact that China has several hundred dialects and from the further knowledge that the major dialects have scores of words or characters in ordinary usage which have as many as five and six widely different meanings.

Heretofore only the language officers detailed with the regiment were required to speak Chinese, but because of the disrupted political and military situation of the country the commanding officer of the outfit has found it necessary to form a language school for the benefit of all the officers under him so that their lack of knowledge of the language will not lead them into misunderstandings with the native militarists and political leaders.

According to the instructions recently issued, all officers upon joining the regiment will be required to attend language classes for 10 hours a week for six weeks and after that six hours a week until the prescribed course has been completed. This preliminary course will last 12 months, but the officers must thereafter attend two or three instructions periods every week during the remainder of their tour of duty in China in order to keep their Chinese brushed up at all times.

Sawdust, which once was wasted, is now being used in the making of linoleum, dolls, dynamite and other things as the result of recent experiments.

On one of the new ocean liners children have an exclusive deck where they may enjoy childhood sports under the supervision of an attendant.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to those who were so generously kind to us in our great sorrow, occasioned by the illness and death of our husband and father, John Felton; to Pennova lodge No. 880, I. O. O. F., Tri-state Encampment, the Ohio City Rebekah lodge; the Rev. G. C. Westlake; the singers; the Sunday school classes and Epworth League of the Penna. Ave. M. E. church; employees of the Laughlin pottery; Mr. Martin, the undertaker; those who donated the use of cars and the very many neighbors, all of whom contributed their sympathy and help by both word and deed.

"... built to standards of accuracy once thought impossible except in hand-built cars"

Body by Fisher

You have frequently heard that the Greater Oakland Six is built to standards of accuracy once thought impossible except in hand-built cars. And perhaps you have doubted the statement, believing that no car so low in price could possibly be manufactured with such scrupulous super-precision.

But if you could see the Greater Oakland Six being built, your own eyes would convince you. You would see piston pins rejected if they varied more than two ten-thousandths of an inch—one-fortieth the thickness of an average human hair.

You would see all revolving parts, from crankshaft to rear axle, being balanced as a unit to such a degree of accuracy that the pleasure of owners is never marred by transmitted vibration.

You would see operation after operation equally unusual, even in a plant where higher priced cars are being built—

—for Oakland is going to unheard-of lengths to keep the Greater Oakland Six the best-built car of its price in the world; to enhance to an even more marked degree its reputation for stamina, long life and low cost maintenance.

$1095 SEDAN

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. The New and Finer Pontiac Six, $775 to $975. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

Boston Heavy Rivals Ready For Plunge To Fame and Fortune

24-Hour Delay Helps Sharkey, Says Critic; Favored By Distance

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Give us a chord, professor! Tra-da-da! All right now, here they are again; just as good as ever, which isn't as bad as it sounds. The same principals, the same scene, the same distance, promoter and crowd. Merely a different evening. Everything else is the same, folks, but the evening must be different or your money back provided you catch us—and we have it.

For it rained real rain all over the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey heavyweight elimination extravaganza at the Yankee Stadium last night and the boys simply couldn't go for an airing, as scheduled. But tonight is another night and so the twice told tale goes in to its second edition with the folloy synopsis:

The principal: Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey, survivors of Tex Rickard's heavyweight championship tournament.

The distance: Fifteen rounds as as much less as either man cares to make it.

The time and place: Tonight at the Yankee Stadium.

The reward: Not less than $75,000 apiece and the right to become the official heavyweight challenger, unless Dempsey declares himself in.

The winner: Jack Sharkey for my money; yes the whole dollar, twenty-nine.

For Sharkey seems to the writer to be a slight sounder bet because of the postponement. In the first place, his cut eyelid has had the healing ministrations of additional time. In the second, Maloney is the type of athlete who might experience greater difficulty in holding his physical edge over an extra night.

Some maintained, indeed, that Sharkey's condition will improve through the additional 24 hours, basing their contention on the notion that he had worked too hard previous to sustaining the injury to his eye. As to that, I cannot say nor can few guess the physchological result of the postponement on either man. Both appeal to the writer as being highly strung, although Maloney actually has been called stolid. I think he is about as stolid, under that clam exterior, as a buck and wing dancer.

The distance favors Sharkey, for apparently he has the stamina of the old timer who counted twenty rounds a mere workout. Maloney never has gone above ten rounds in his life and possibly will know too little about rating his speed through the middle of the fight. Previous to the Delaney match, he was supposed to have a tendency to blow up in the late rounds. That, however, was one of several things he was supposed to do that night and didn't.

Finally, Sharkey's superior speed should enable him to make the fighting what he wants it to be. He hasn't Maloney's punch but he can outstep and out-think him and God nor man could ask no more. In brief, it should become a duel of left hands and I think Sharkey's is the better. Maloney's real sock is in his right hand but if he can cross that to the chin tonight Sharkey is considerably less the boxer than I think he is.

Maloney's advantage is in being a combination fighter-boxer with a punch that really has some authority. But precedent and distance of the fight is against him.

Precedent is found in the two out of three decisions Sharkey has gained in previous fights between the men who come from the same town of Boston, which bred the immortal Sullivan and never lived to regret it, and yet dislike each other with a great, undying sincerity. Maloney won the first fight when both were just a couple of young fellows, doing the best they could. But Sharkey took the next two in such a way as to convince everyone, even Maloney they say, that he was the better man.

Jack got off the floor six or seven times to win the second fight, which may or may not indicate that he is the tougher man, also. However, I will say this against his chances and say it with some emphasis:

He has won this fight in conversation too many times to really do himself much good when he tries to win it is in the ring. I might feel more sure of Sharkey if he felt less sure of himself. Tunney had the perfect attitude at Stroudsburg in declaring that he expected to be on the floor at least twice against Dempsey.

Bentley to Newark.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Jack Bentley, the southpaw with the corkscrew windup, has been released to the Newark club of the International league, the Giant's new farm. Hailed as one of the greatest pitchers ever developed in the minors and reputed to be a home run hitter to boot, Bentley came to the Giants from Baltimore but never became a star. He was sold to the Phillies but returned to the Giants this season.

CORDS BEAT BILLIARDS AT CHESTER

Riley Nine Ties With Turk Nash for Second Place.

Playing under almost constant threat of rain the Chester Superior Cords defeated the American Billiards by one run last night at Smith Field and went into a tie with Turk Nash for second place. The final count was 7-6.

Both teams used two pitchers and the Americans a brace of back-stops young Amos succeeding Manager Pat Sullivan behind the stick. Zorzie, a former Chester reserve hurler, started for Chester, and was found for three runs, although a bad heave to first by Vanaman in an effort to complete a double play aided in the attack. Two walks and a single also helped the visitors.

Evans went to the mound in the third. Except in the sixth when four hits and an outfield error gave the opposition three runs he blanked the Billiards regularly.

The Billiards opened with three runs in the first frame. Chester counted one in the first, another in the second and went ahead with three runs in the third. Two more in the fourth gave the Cords a total of seven. Eight men wielded the stick for the Billiards in the first of the sixth when three runs crossed the plate.

With the score seven to six in favor of Chester and going to bat for the last time, the Billiards were retired by the strikeout route in the last of the seventh. Carey and Fowler fanned in turn. Howell walked and Moore, breezing, retired the side.

Lou Gehrig On Rampage

Clouts 9th Homer, Tying Babe; Boosts Average to .425.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, May 20.—As the Yankees, with a seven game winning streak, continue to rip the western teams to shreds, the big gun in their attack is not Babe Ruth, but Lou Gehrig. The husky first baseman clouted his ninth home run of the season against Cleveland yesterday, tying Ruth, and also boosted his batting average to .425, the highest percentage for regulars in either league.

Gehrig also has made more hits and scored more runs than any player in either league. No other American League slugger has hit more doubles or triples. Pitchers who formerly passed Ruth to get at Gehrig are now pitching to the Babe and handing out free transportation to the former Columbia star, and Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, has horrid visions of being saddled with another $70,000 contract.

Deacon Wilcey Moore, the demon pallbearer, shared honors with Gehrig yesterday. After relieving Shocker he blanked the Indians for seven innings and bunted in a run in the ninth that gave the Yanks a 4 to 3 decision.

A home run by Ken Williams in the tenth inning enabled the Browns to nose out the Red Sox, 6 to 5, after Boston tied the score with a four run rally in the ninth. Melillo got four hits. The Browns have won five of their last six games, and are tied with the Athletics for third place.

Al Thomas of the White Sox registered his sixth victory of the season in winning a 3 to 0 decision over Lefty Grove of the Athletics. Ty Cobb got two hits and has batted safely in his last nineteen games.

Although he allowed only five hits, Owen Carroll of Detroit, former king of eastern college pitchers, lost a 3 to 0 duel to Hollis Thurston of Washington. Rigney's triple in the seventh broke up the game.

LOCAL TRACK TEAM IN PITT MEET SATURDAY

English May Get Chance to Match Speed With Miller, Washington, (Pa.) High School Flash.

Elmer English, high school sprinter and figured on as one of the Blue and White's chief point getters at next week's county field meet, probably will match speed with the Washington (Pa.) high school flash, Miller, at the University of Pittsburgh interscholastic meet tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

English and five other local lads will wear the local colors in the western Pennsylvania contests.

Miller has been going great in Keystone state events up until the present time, but local followers are confident that English can match him, step for step and stride for stride.

English will run the 100, the 220 and the 440, as well as the relay. Deems will be entered in the half-mile and should bring home some points. O'Hanlon is the mile entry and Kirkham is figures to do some scoring in the discus, shot put and javelin.

Deems, Ward and Lisk will run with English in the relay, while Ward likely will be entered in the 220-hurdles as well.

The squad will leave tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in automobiles.

SHARKEY IS OFFERED $150,000 TO LAY DOWN

Report Gambler Talks With Manager Johnny Buckley; Tex Rickard to Investigate.

NEW YORK, May 20. — A report that a gambler had offered a $150,000 bribe to Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, if Sharkey would "lay down" in his bout with Jim Maloney here tonight, stirred Promoter Tex Rickard to action this morning.

"If any attempt was made to bribe Sharkey, it will be taken up with the district attorney," Rickard declared

The name of the gambler, who is alleged to have made the offer to Buckley at a hotel here on Wednesday night, was not revealed. Buckley said he kept the matter quiet as long as possible in order not to cause Sharkey worry.

Lindstrom Out of Lineup.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Freddy Lindstrom, brilliant young third baseman, may be kept out of the Giants' lineup indefinitely because of an injury to his back, it was learned today. A bone has been chipped off his vertebrae, and the injury has been blamed for Lindstrom's recent batting slump.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Rain may again cause a postponement of the Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney heavyweight bout at Yankee stadium here tonight. Although the skies were clear this morning, showers were predicted by the weather bureau for tonight.

NATIONALS COP 8-5 TILT

Defeat Roselawns in Postponed Game Playoff.

One of the Review-Tribune Recreation League's postponed games was erased from the list last night when the National Furnitures defeated the Roselawns in a fast, well played contest at the playground, the engagement going 10 innings before the Furnitures got the decision.

The Roselawns got away first, counting three times in third inning. The Furnitures went ahead in the first of the sixth with a four run attack but Charley Kidd's gang came back in their half of the same frame to knot it up.

Roselawns pushed another runner over in the seventh, giving them a one-run lead which, however, was lost when the Furnitures scored in the ninth, the tally standing 5-5.

The Furnitures then proceeded to grab off three runs in the tenth while the opposition went scoreless.

24-Hour Delay Helps Sharkey, Says Critic; Favored By Distance

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Give us a chord, professor! Tra-da-da! All right now, here they are again; just as good as ever, which isn't as bad as it sounds. The same principals, the same scene, the same distance, promoter and crowd. Merely a different evening. Everything else is the same, folks, but the evening must be different or your money back provided you catch us—and we have it.

For it rained real rain all over the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey heavyweight elimination extravaganza at the Yankee Stadium last night and the boys simply couldn't go for an airing, as scheduled. But tonight is another night and so the twice told tale goes in to its second edition with the folloy synopsis:

The principal: Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey, survivors of Tex Rickard's heavyweight championship tournament.

The distance: Fifteen rounds as as much less as either man cares to make it.

The time and place: Tonight at the Yankee Stadium.

The reward: Not less than $75,000 apiece and the right to become the official heavyweight challenger, unless Dempsey declares himself in.

The winner: Jack Sharkey for my money; yes the whole dollar, twenty-nine.

For Sharkey seems to the writer to be a slight sounder bet because of the postponement. In the first place, his cut eyelid has had the healing ministrations of additional time. In the second, Maloney is the type of athlete who might experience greater difficulty in holding his physical edge over an extra night.

Some maintained, indeed, that Sharkey's condition will improve through the additional 24 hours, basing their contention on the notion that he had worked too hard previous to sustaining the injury to his eye. As to that, I cannot say nor can few guess the physchological result of the postponement on either man. Both appeal to the writer as being highly strung, although Maloney actually has been called stolid. I think he is about as stolid, under that clam exterior, as a buck and wing dancer.

The distance favors Sharkey, for apparently he has the stamina of the old timer who counted twenty rounds a mere workout. Maloney never has gone above ten rounds in his life and possibly will know too little about rating his speed through the middle of the fight. Previous to the Delaney match, he was supposed to have a tendency to blow up in the late rounds. That, however, was one of several things he was supposed to do that night and didn't.

Finally, Sharkey's superior speed should enable him to make the fighting what he wants it to be. He hasn't Maloney's punch but he can outstep and out-think him and God nor man could ask no more. In brief, it should become a duel of left hands and I think Sharkey's is the better. Maloney's real sock is in his right hand but if he can cross that to the chin tonight Sharkey is considerably less the boxer than I think he is.

Maloney's advantage is in being a combination fighter-boxer with a punch that really has some authority. But precedent and distance of the fight is against him.

Precedent is found in the two out of three decisions Sharkey has gained in previous fights between the men who come from the same town of Boston, which bred the immortal Sullivan and never lived to regret it, and yet dislike each other with a great, undying sincerity. Maloney won the first fight when both were just a couple of young fellows, doing the best they could. But Sharkey took the next two in such a way as to convince everyone, even Maloney they say, that he was the better man.

Jack got off the floor six or seven times to win the second fight, which may or may not indicate that he is the tougher man, also. However, I will say this against his chances and say it with some emphasis:

He has won this fight in conversation too many times to really do himself much good when he tries to win it is in the ring. I might feel more sure of Sharkey if he felt less sure of himself. Tunney had the perfect attitude at Stroudsburg in declaring that he expected to be on the floor at least twice against Dempsey.

Bentley to Newark.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Jack Bentley, the southpaw with the corkscrew windup, has been released to the Newark club of the International league, the Giant's new farm. Hailed as one of the greatest pitchers ever developed in the minors and reputed to be a home run hitter to boot, Bentley came to the Giants from Baltimore but never became a star. He was sold to the Phillies but returned to the Giants this season.

MAY RAIN AGAIN

NEW YORK, May 20.—Rain may again cause a postponement of the Jack Sharkey-Jim Maloney heavyweight bout at Yankee stadium here tonight. Although the skies were clear this morning, showers were predicted by the weather bureau for tonight.

If rain washes out the bout tonight, it will be held tomorrow night, weather permitting.

Defeat Roselawns in Postponed Game Playoff.

One of the Review-Tribune Recreation League's postponed games was erased from the list last night when the National Furnitures defeated the Roselawns in a fast, well played contest at the playground, the engagement going 10 innings before the Furnitures got the decision.

The Roselawns got away first, counting three times in third inning. The Furnitures went ahead in the first of the sixth with a four run attack but Charley Kidd's gang came back in their half of the same frame to knot it up.

Roselawns pushed another runner over in the seventh, giving them a one-run lead which, however, was lost when the Furnitures scored in the ninth, the tally standing 5-5.

The Furnitures then proceeded to grab off three runs in the tenth while the opposition went scoreless.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

MODERN EDUCATION'S DEFECTS POINTED OUT BY CONGRESSMAN

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—When I was a kid I was taught that the more schooling you had the better.

Grammar school wasn't enough; high school barely.

THOMAS B. FLETCHER

If you wanted to be any better than an ignorant foreigner you had to go to college. You might forget all about it later but it disciplined your mind anyway.

We didn't all go but the kid who didn't was regarded as having overlooked his life's best bet or having been robbed of something.

It was felt also that some college had been film-flammed.

NOW, about every so often, the president of one or another of our big universities breaks out substantially as follows:

"Too blame high a percentage of the kids who attend this institution of learning are congenial boneheads. College can't do anything for 'em. They oughta be out earning a living. They waste their time here. What's more, they waste OUR time.

"There oughta be some way of keeping kids OUTA college who got no business there."

AT first I thought this was a new kind of college professorial snobbishness. Then it got so persistent it puzzled me. Finally I decided to investigate.

For educational lore, call on Congressman Brooks Fletcher.

He's on the house education committee. In my opinion he's the crackerjack member—anyway the crackerjack OHIO member. Besides, he worked in a steel mill after HE got out of college, so I felt sure he wasn't snobbish.

"WHY, you see," explained the congressman, "colleges originally were intended to fit candidates for just three callings—the church, law and medicine.

"Their training was almost indispensable in any of these callings; to the aspirant for a steel mill job it was mighty little use.

"College courses have been immensely broadened since then, but they haven't kept pace with the increase in the number of our occupations.

"The university president who says certain students aren't the right raw material for his institution means rather that his institution hasn't anything to offer that those students need."

"EVEN," continued the representative, "if a university has a line of study perfectly suited to a given student's requirements and he's taking something else, they're wasting one another's time.

"Before a student's admitted to any institution of higher learning, it should be determined what training will do him the most good.

"If he himself doesn't know, it's the school's business to investigate until it finds out. Otherwise, yes, unless by pure accident, his education will be a waste of time."

"SUPPOSE," said the Ohio congressman, "a sick man called at a hospital and asked to be operated on.

"'What for?' asks the superintendent.

"'What operations have you?' inquires the patient.

"'We have an operation for appendicitis that's given good results in many instances,' says the doctor, 'or we can trephine your skull, or we can give you a nice amputation of the leg.'

"'Go ahead,' says the patient, 'and amputate my leg.'

"A nice way to pick out an operation!—without a diagnosis, to find out what ails the man.

"No more can an education be picked out arbitrarily, to fit any and every case."

Let us assume that once there was a criminal who actually preferred execution to life imprisonment. He was the exception to prove the rule.—Marion Star.

Colorado May Get Call for Summer Home of Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 20.—An early announcement is expected from President Coolidge as to the location of the summer White House.

Col. E. W. Starling, U. S. secret service, returned today with a personal report for the president on sites in six states—Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colarado, Iowa and South Dakta. The president will make his choice after conferring with Starling.

While earlier indications favored a site in Wisconsin, the president's physicians have been urging him to seek altitude, and for this reason Colorado may get the call.

Governor Donahey Signs Four Bills Recently Enacted

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—Governor Vic Donahey today announced that he had signed four bills, recently enacted by the Ohio legislature, as follows:

The Sullivan bill, increasing the state's share of inheritance taxes and providing for an approximate increase of $500,000 a year in the state's revenues.

The Lefever bill, providing for appointment of attorney-examiners to aid the state utilities commission in relieving its congested docket, and authorizing the commission to employ and discharge its own employes.

The Jones bill, providing for an adjustment of the tax rate of a taxing district situated in two, or more, counties, and defining the fiscal officer in townships as the township clerk.

The Cross bill providing penalties to be imposed upon persons who remove improvements from mortgaged property.

Here's Real Relief From Neuritis

In 24 to 48 Hours Pains Are Often Relieved and You Get Rest and Comfort Again.

Torturing pains—the kind that pierce and burn and never seem to let up—that rob a man of his sleep—that make him just a bag of nerves and all worn out.

Those are the pains that dope and coal tar products can only partially relieve.

The safest and most efficient way to get rid of the persistent, nerve-racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2. Be sure you get No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take these little dark green capsules as directed and in about 24 hours you should be able to notice that they have considerably reduced if not almost banished those severe, torturing pains that have caused you so many sleepless nights. Continue for two or three days more or until you are satisfied with results.

It doesn't matter how long you may have suffered or whether your Neuritis is in the shoulder, arm, neck or legs, Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 should give you speedy relief. Mathews Medicine Store or any good druggist will be glad to supply you.

SYNOPSIS.

LARRY GRENFALL, American traveler and student of Eastern magic, receives a telephone call from BEN MANSOUR, cosmopolite and old friend, saying he must see him at once. Larry goes and Mansour tells him he is about to die and that he wants him to go to Morocco, where he, Mansour, is a sherif or native ruler. He is to find the Temple, endure the Ordeal, crush the Group and put Mansour's son on the throne. A Moor appears and gives Mansour a token, a ruby ring which Larry later wears. The Moor also throws into thee room a tiny ivory tiger—the Striped Death. Mansour dies and his body disappears—carried off by the Moors. Larry goes to Morocco, finds OMAR BEN MEDJAD, who dresses him as a wizard, and as Youssef el-Habbassi he starts on his travels.

Larry demonstrates his gifts as a wizard to a Moor he meets, who proves to be Omar, who has disguised himself to test Larry.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

They turned back to the road and resumed their toil upward through the hills. The scenery was now becoming rugged. The air was redolent of lavender and they made their way between walls of fragrant broom, mastick trees and zizypnus; arbor vite and iron wood, while the fragle scent of lotus tinted the air with a delicious, luring smell. Larry had never seen anything so vividly colorful.

After a time they left the main highway and turned into a lesser thoroughfare and now they traversed a veritable bower of beauty. Gigantic bushes of Spanish broom, ruddy clusters of pimpernel and snowy white lady's smock hemmed them in on either side, liberally interspersed with deep, golden sprigs of sweet musk, balsam, tufted horesshoe vetch and queenly, delicate asphodel. Crane's bill and tiny bird's-eye, blue and pink larkspur and hardy thyme; ox-eye and mignonette, all were mingled here bathed in the mellow glow of the hot, slanting sun.

As the way became steeper the floral scenery grew more magnificent and now there was added the comonnile daisies, purple convolvulvi; mild, scentless mustard and dainty shades of blue and purple iris here and there; there were red adonis, myrtle and jessamine, a literal fairlyand for flower lovers.

"'Tis a pity that where so much beauty lies intrigue should be so rampant," Larry said, and Adbesselam turned to answer. But before he could speak a voice reached them, a droning sing-song voice that was suggestive of the minaret muebbins.

"Allah akbar! Allah akbar! God is great, God is great. There is no God but God and Mohammed is his prophet. Come to prayer. Allah akbar! There is no God but God."

Startled they looked about them then Omar swiftly prostrated himself in the road, Larry following his lead. It was the call to the aser, the afternoon prayer.

As the prayer ended Larry gazed about him and saw a small hut, the hibitation of a saint, or holy man, almost hidden by towering rocks. Now watching the door of the squalid domicile, he saw a burly man emerge. Evidently he had been inside to prayer. By the cut of the man's jib Larry set him down on the instant as a Berber and pprobably one who was unattached, owing allegiance to no tribe. The man's garish dress indicated that he might be a hill outlaw. The fellow's eyes met Larry's and he spoke.

"I," he said, his voice heavy and swaggerong, "am Beni Ahmed. Who, in the name of Allah, are you?"

"I am Abdesselam el-Hadj," Omar said, before Larry could speak, "and my companion is the one the mountain tribes have heard was coming—Youssef el-Habbassi, the wizard."

Beni Ahmed's thick lips curled as he jangled his sword.

"A wizard, eh? It is in my mind that 'twere better to depend on cold steel to carve out the happenings of the future than to depend on a magician to reveal what is in store. How think you, Abdesselam el-Hadj?"

Larry felt Omar's elbow nudge him gently.

"I am not one who may say, Beni Ahmed. Truly, I have seen this wizard do marvelous things. He did read for me an event of the past, which of a surety he could have had no knowledge of, yet did he make it glow as a picture on the face of a burnished lake; and I saw that which I knew to be the truth."

"Then, let us test the wizard," said Beni Ahmed. "Read my future for me Father of Wisdom, and say what you see written there?"

Larry damned his companion sincerely, if silently, for creating this trap—unintentional, of course, but nevertheless a trap. Had it been a simple feat of legerdemain he would have fallen in with the idea willingly, but this taing of reading a man's future was something else again, especially since the fellow seemed an outlaw, and in all likelihood a tool of the man whose price was highest in the bidding for his services.

But there was nothing for it save to play the part Omar had assigned to him, so boldly, he looked into the face of Beni Ahmed, then, starting solemnly he centered his eyes on the other. After a minute of this Beni Ahmed shifted restlessly.

"Well," he roared gruffly, "what halts your tongue? Cannot you see through my thick skull and read what is written there?"

"Nay, Beni Ahmed," Larry answered, forced to speak, his mind racing for an idea, "it is not that I fail to read what it written, but it is not in my heart to tell you what I read."

Despite his bold bearing and his scoffing manner, Beni Ahmed's face was briefly distorted by an uneasy twist of his features. He asked:

"You find that which you do not like. Is that it?"

Larry bowed.

"Then, tell it, that I may know. He who knows what awaits ahead is armed against all evils, is he not? Speak, wizard, and tell me if this you see is anything that my long sword will not carve from my path."

Larry now gazed solemnly at Beni again and spoke in a heavy, sonorous voice:

"I see, Ben Ahmed, that on the third night from this you shall die by a hand unknown to you at this hour. Did I not say I had not the heart to read?"

The other's face paled on the instant, then his bold eyes flared.

"Bah, wizard; you are either a great liar or a bad guesser. On the third night from this I shall be with one who stands high in the Group. I shall be in a city of walls. You cannot have foseen my future."

Larry knew he could do nothing less now than carry through to a finish what he had started.

"Nevertheless, it is written, Beni Ahmed."

With never a word the Berber drew his long, curved sword and it flashed about his head, dropping in an arc

SOME TASTY SALADS

Recipes by Ann Page—Ingredients by Your A & P Store

LETTUCE, served alone or as base for mixed salads, is a daily necessity for Spring meals. Select a firm head of lettuce, wash and drain. Cut crosswise into thin slices (as you would slice oranges), arrange 3 small sardines on each serving, and garnish with fancy bits of pickled beet. Drench with a tart French dressing.

Stuffed Celery is an appetizing luncheon dish. Separate the stalk into single pieces. Wash and dry. Fill the hollow of each piece with a mixture made of ½ cup cream cheese, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chopped pickle, and mashed sardine to taste.

Butterfly Salad is a pretty salad to serve as a course. Cut pineapple rings in two, and place on plate with curved sides touching. These form the wings. Make a body of cream cheese; and feelers, two thin strips of pimento. Maraschino cherries placed on the wings make the spots.

Strawberry Salad is new and tasty. Mix 2 cups of fresh berries and 1 cup of cream cheese broken in small pieces. Fold into ¼ cup of heavy cream, whipped. Serve on lettuce.

Pea and Celery Salad is made by combining 1 cup of cooked peas and 1 cup chopped celery with mayonnaise. Place each portion on lettuce and add a dash of onion salt.

Are you tired of the same old salads? Do you want some new ones? Drop me a card and I'll send you my new salad recipes, 16 crispy, springy salads.

Takes Pain Off the Calendar

COOLIDGE'S 1928 INTENTIONS NOT LIKELY TO BE ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, May 20. — Your choice of two theories is available as to President Coolidge's plan for 1928

That he's going to run again and that he isn't going to run again?

Oh, yes, you can put it that way if you like.

That doesn't mean much, though. Any dumbbell knows he must do one or the other of those two things.

At least one of the two choices I'm referring to is the kind of a choice it takes some brains to understand. It explains why the president's so reticent on the third term issue, even if he doesn't mean to run again. It makes sense.

PRESENT indications are that Cal's going right into the 1928 convention without announcing whether he's a candidate for a renomination or not

This certainly will be interpreted as meaning that he is.

If, up to that stage of the game, he hasn't said anything about the third term issue, it will be assumed that he considers it an issue best left alone.

On that basis he'll be renominated, according to theory No. 1.

THEORY No. 2 is that he thinks his acceptance of a renomination would generally be regarded as a bid for a third term, that he's opposed to it, or doesn't believe he could get away with it, and that he doesn't intend to try.

Yet theorists in class No. 2 opine that the president will, nevertheless, let the 1928 convention open up without ever having expressed himself on the subject either of his own renomination or a third term.

They predict that everything will look, up to the very last minute, as if Cal's renomination were absolutely assured.

And then—

It will be somebody else.

That's theory No. 2.

BUT if President Coolidge doesn't intend to run to succeed himself, why (you ask) doesn't he say so now, and give other candidates a chance to line up their forces?

Precisely. If he gave them the chance, that's just what they'd do. Until he gives the word, they can't.

He has his candidate all picked out.

If others break it, with plenty of time to get 'emselves "set," who knows who'll win?

If, however, Cal can keep everything sewed up until the very psychological moment arrives, and then deliver his backing, solid, on the convention floor, to his man—

Why, it'll be all over before the echo of the convention chairman's gavel's first whang has died away.

THAT'S the choice of theories Washington's offering now.

I give 'em without prejudice. They come straight enough, but you get lots of straight tips that aren't so. Besides, they can't both be right.

Herbert Hoover's is the name you hear mentioned in connection with theory No. 2—not Frank O. Lowden's or Nick Longworth's or Charles G. Dawes'.

During a recent bush fire in Australia Steven McAnanby rode through the danger area for three days releasing sheep and cattle from the paddocks.

COOLIDGE'S 1928 INTENTIONS NOT LIKELY TO BE ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, May 20. — Your choice of two theories is available as to President Coolidge's plan for 1928

That he's going to run again and that he isn't going to run again?

Oh, yes, you can put it that way if you like.

That doesn't mean much, though. Any dumbbell knows he must do one or the other of those two things.

At least one of the two choices I'm referring to is the kind of a choice it takes some brains to understand. It explains why the president's so reticent on the third term issue, even if he doesn't mean to run again. It makes sense.

PRESENT indications are that Cal's going right into the 1928 convention without announcing whether he's a candidate for a renomination or not.

This certainly will be interpreted as meaning that he is.

If, up to that stage of the game, he hasn't said anything about the third term issue, it will be assumed that he considers it an issue best left alone.

On that basis he'll be renominated, according to theory No. 1.

THEORY No. 2 is that he thinks his acceptance of a renomination would generally be regarded as a bid for a third term, that he's opposed to it, or doesn't believe he could get away with it, and that he doesn't intend to try.

Yet theorists in class No. 2 opine that the president will, nevertheless, let the 1928 convention open up without ever having expressed himself on the subject either of his own renomination or a third term.

They predict that everything will look, up to the very last minute, as if Cal's renomination were absolutely assured.

And then—

It will be somebody else.

That's theory No. 2.

BUT if President Coolidge doesn't intend to run to succeed himself, why (you ask) doesn't he say so now, and give other candidates a chance to line up their forces?

Precisely. If he gave them the chance, that's just what they'd do. Until he gives the word, they can't.

He has his candidate all picked out.

If others break it, with plenty of time to get 'emselves "set," who knows who'll win?

If, however, Cal can keep everything sewed up until the very psychological moment arrives, and then deliver his backing, solid, on the convention floor, to his man—that reflected the slanting sunbeams and under his heavy, chopping stroke the air seemed to shiver.

Why, it'll be all over before the echo of the convention chairman's gavel's first whang has died away.

THAT'S the choice of theories Washington's offering now.

I give 'em without prejudice. They come straight enough, but you get lots of straight tips that aren't so. Besides, they can't both be right.

"Now," said the Berber heavily, "I shall be alone on the third night save for the agents I go to meet. Since they seek my services, and at a high price, it is folly to think any one of them would kill me unaware to myself. Bah! It is in my mind that you are either a fool or a liar. My sword is my protector."

"Nothing under Alah shall avert your fate, Beni Ahmed," Larry said, voice calm.

They heard the saint whining dolefully and turned to see him rolling his eyes, and praying that the harsh talk before his domicile might be forgiven, since he had had no hand in it.

"Allah avert the evil that will come on my head for this day's sorrow," he said. "Oh, Wizard, why did you read? Sorcerer, begone."

"It was written," Larry said once more, voicing the time-worn platitude of the country. Then he calmly turned his back on the Berber outlaw. The latter at once strode off through the shrubbery and Omar plucked at Larry's arm.

"We must go," he said, "for the hour grows late and we still have far to travel.

SAMUEL RIPPETH TO PAY ALIMONY

Samuel C. Rippeth, who filed an action for divorce in common pleas court April 25 last against his wife, Sarah M. Rippeth, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 temporary alimony on or before June 7 and in addition $60 per month for the support of the defendant and minor children. This order followed a hearing on the motion for alimony. The monthly alimony is to be paid during the pendency of the case.

PLEA FOR PARDON IS WITHDRAWN

A pardon was asked at Harrisburg Wednesday for A. C. Osburn, Beaver county, bank embezzler, who has served less than a year and a half of a sentence of from 15 to 30 years in the Western Penitentiary for embezzlement of $230,000 of the funds of the Woodlawn Trust company, of which he was president and secretary.

Within an hour after the plea for Osburn had been made, his attorney did an unusual thing by asking the board's permission to withdraw the application. Permission was granted.

It was said that the state banking department opposed a pardon for Osburn on the ground that he had not served sufficient time of his sentence. With this opposition, favorable action by the board in his case was considered unlikely, and a refusal against Osburn would have been listed on the board's record. It is understood that an application will be filed after Osburn has served a longer period.

Prince of Wales Finds Paradise in Vicinity of London

EWHURST, Surrey, England. — In search of quiet and rest, and to escape the penalty of popularity, the Prince of Wales has found a little Paradise within fifty miles of London.

He has rented Summerfield, the "cottage" of the Duke of Sutherland, for the entire summer, and the house looks almost like an impregnable Highland fastness among the heather.

Bounded on three sides by precipitous slopes of heather, pine and larch, this isolated dwelling can only be approached from the nearest village, Ewhurst, by what are little better than cart tracks. The house is 800 feet above sea level.

The interior consists of study, smoking, dining and drawing rooms, and a loggia runs the length of the house. There are seven bedrooms, and a fine tennis court and large stables and garages are attached. The 38 acres of grounds are laid out as informal gardens.

Melbourne, Australia, is to have a million-dollar theatre.

SAMUEL RIPPETH TO PAY ALIMONY

Samuel C. Rippeth, who filed an action for divorce in common pleas court April 25 last against his wife, Sarah M. Rippeth, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 temporary alimony on or before June 7 and in addition $60 per month for the support of the defendant and minor children. This order followed a hearing on the motion for alimony. The monthly alimony is to be paid during the pendency of the case.

PLEA FOR PARDON IS WITHDRAWN

A pardon was asked at Harrisburg Wednesday for A. C. Osburn, Beaver county, bank embezzler, who has served less than a year and a half of a sentence of from 15 to 30 years in the Western Penitentiary for embezzlement of $230,000 of the funds of the Woodlawn Trust company, of which he was president and secretary.

Within an hour after the plea for Osburn had been made, his attorney did an unusual thing by asking the board's permission to withdraw the application. Permission was granted.

It was said that the state banking department opposed a pardon for Osburn on the ground that he had not served sufficient time of his sentence. With this opposition, favorable action by the board in his case was considered unlikely, and a refusal against Osburn would have been listed on the board's record. It is understood that an application will be filed after Osburn has served a longer period.

Prince of Wales Finds Paradise in Vicinity of London

EWHURST, Surrey, England. — In search of quiet and rest, and to escape the penalty of popularity, the Prince of Wales has found a little Paradise within fifty miles of London.

He has rented Summerfield, the "cottage" of the Duke of Sutherland, for the entire summer, and the house looks almost like an impregnable Highland fastness among the heather.

Bounded on three sides by precipitous slopes of heather, pine and larch, this isolated dwelling can only be approached from the nearest village, Ewhurst, by what are little better than cart tracks. The house is 800 feet above sea level.

The interior consists of study, smoking, dining and drawing rooms, and a loggia runs the length of the house. There are seven bedrooms, and a fine tennis court and large stables and garages are attached. The 38 acres of grounds are laid out as informal gardens.

Melbourne, Australia, is to have a million-dollar theatre.

DINNER STORIES.

Couldn't Fool Her.

The Scotch people do not like manuscripts in the pulpit. On one occasion the domine warmed up at the close of the sermon and, as he turned the last leaf of his manuscript, he said, "My friends, I might enlarge upon this subject!" An old lady in the gallery was looking down upon him and saw the situation. She had been provoked that he read his sermon, and promptly spoke out: "You canna, you canna, we are doon, and ye know it."

A Delicate Child

"Sir," wrote the indignant mother to the schoolmaster, "you mustn't whack my Tommy. He ain't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

A Smart Answer.

Once upon a time a student took a chemistry exam. One of the questions was, "Give in detail the process for making mercuric bichloride." In answer to which the student wrote, "God made all things, ever mercuric bichloride." Imagine his surprise when he received his corrected exam book and read, "God gets the credit. You don't. You fail."

A Faint Resemblance.

"My boy," said the patronizing man, as he handed around the Flor de Toofas, "hat's something like a cigar!"

"So it is," responded the victim after he had taken a puff or two; "what is it?"

Physician Goes To Greenville, S. C., To Examine Carroll

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A physician will be sent to Greenville, S. C., to examine Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, and determine whether he is fit to continue his journey to Atlanta federal prison to serve a year and a day for perjury, it was announced at the department of justice today.

Carroll collapsed several weeks ago while being taken to the prison, and has since been in a Greenville hospital.

Nine Martins Ferry Firemen Illegally Paid as Councilmen

COLUMBUS, May 20.—Nine members of the Martins Ferry fire department were illegally paid $864 for services as city councilmen, according to a ruling contained in a report made public here today by state Auditor Joseph T. Tracy. These firemen, state officials held, should return this money to the Martins Ferry city treasury.

The report covers an investigation by state examiners John H. Powelson, Walter C. Jones and Edward A. Brown of the Martins Ferry city offices for the period from Dec. 12, 1923, to Sept. 13, 1926.

Findings for recovery, totaling $365.23, are returned against the city and various bank companies and persons at Martins Ferry, due to alleged overpayment of interest deposits, expenses to conventions, excessive compensation, duplicate payments and errors in payments, it was claimed.

Physician Goes To Greenville, S. C., To Examine Carroll

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A physician will be sent to Greenville, S. C., to examine Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, and determine whether he is fit to continue his journey to Atlanta federal prison to serve a year and a day for perjury, it was announced at the department of justice today.

Carroll collapsed several weeks ago while being taken to the prison, and has since been in a Greenville hospital.

Nine Martins Ferry Firemen Illegally Paid as Councilmen

COLUMBUS, May 20.—Nine members of the Martins Ferry fire department were illegally paid $864 for services as city councilmen, according to a ruling contained in a report made public here today by state Auditor Joseph T. Tracy. These firemen, state officials held, should return this money to the Martins Ferry city treasury.

The report covers an investigation by state examiners John H. Powelson, Walter C. Jones and Edward A. Brown of the Martins Ferry city offices for the period from Dec. 12, 1923, to Sept. 13, 1926.

Findings for recovery, totaling $365.23, are returned against the city and various bank companies and persons at Martins Ferry, due to alleged overpayment of interest deposits, expenses to conventions, excessive compensation, duplicate payments and errors in payments, it was claimed.

ESSAY CONTEST FOR CHILDREN

Prizes Offered in "Cross Crossings Cautiously" Drive.

East Liverpool school children have been asked to participate in the essay contest, which is being conducted by the American Railway System association, of which the Pennsylvania road is a part, to promote safety at crossings. Prizes totaling $750 will be awarded the winners.

Subject of the essays will be "Cross Crossings Cautiously!" One prize of $250 will be given for the best essay submitted by the students of the elementary schools; another prize of the same amount for the best essay submitted by the high school and the third prize, also for $250 for the best essay written by the student of a college or technical school.

Essays, which must contain not to exceed 250 words and must be submitted to Superintendent of Schools Charles S. McVay not later than June 1, will be judged at the offices of the American Railway association, at New York.

A prisoner serving a short-time sentence over in Pennsylvania voluntarily took upon himself a life sentence. He married the sheriff's daughter.—Marion Star.

Minerals! vitamins! bran!

—for growth and health

For normal growth in children and radiant health in grown-ups, more than mere quantity of food is now known to be necessary.

That is why the whole-grain foods are now being considered so valuable by nutrition authorities. For they supply health essentials too often neglected.

A bowl of Quick Mother's Oats with milk provides many things needed to make children grow—and to keep grown-ups really well. Minerals! Vitamins! And the oat bran, which is unusually tender and so valuable for roughage in these days of too-highly-refined cereals!

The careful millers of Quick Mother's Oats have learned how to mill it to a fine, even texture—so that it always cooks up smoothly, the way you like it. It tastes good, too.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, for which you may receive silverware, a dinner set, toilet articles—many other things you want.

POSTER CONTEST WINNERS NAMED

One hundred and four embryo artists, school pupils in rural Ohio, have been announced as prize winners in a state-wide poster contest involving, in effect, 45,000 contestants.

Partly to advertise the 750 farmers' institutes held in Ohio this past winter, the children drew posters announcing these sessions. They competed for local prizes in the state contest conducted by the agricultural college extension service at the Ohio State University.

In Columbiana county the $1.00 prize winner in the state contest was Ronold Conover.

ENGLISH FILES CROSS PETITION

An answer and cross petition has been filed by the defendant in the divorce action filed by Nettie D. English against her husband, James S. English, who resides at Cleveland.

In his cross petition, English avers that he went to Cleveland to obtain employment, and with the full knowledge of his wife, but that she has refused to go with him there. The cross petition asks that the defendant be granted a decree of divorce, and that he be given the custody of a minor child.

MOTION FILED IN DAMAGE CASE

The Pennsylvania Railroad company, defendant in a $20,000 damage action filed in common pleas court against it June 19, 1925, by the Stark Coal company, has filed a motion with the court to compel the plaintiff to produce in court next Monday when the case is called for trial, "the papers, blue prints and map and records and other papers mentioned in the motion." The plaintiff claims that because of the company mines being flooded as a result of the defendant maintaining an obstruction to a water course near the mine, the mine was flooded, and that the company sustained damages by water and loss of production.

"FLYING FOOL" OFF TO PARIS

Today

Let It Grumble.
Fine Sham War—BUT.
Insull's Quadruple Role.
Strong Jaw, Good Sign.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.]

SCIENTISTS began digging into the lava that covers the buried city of Herculaneum, and immediately Vesuvius began growling, shaking the earth and throwing flaming lava into the air.

Once the diggers would have quit their work in terror, thinking they had displeased the volcano god—or demon.

Now they look at Vesuvius, say "Thank heaven for that safety valve," and go on digging.

OUR sham battle in the Atlantic goes along admirably. Firing is heavy, and the "Blue" force, supposed to be defending us against invasion by the "Black" enemy, yesterday afternoon blew up and destroyed a boat bringing airplanes to attack us. That's most satisfactory.

BUT in real war, the carriers bringing airplanes might not oblige us by coming within range of our guns. The planes might leave their carriers five hundred miles off the coast, go up out of sight, and surprise our big cities.

What then?

IN Chicago, Samuel Insull, not as young as when he worked with Edison in the last century, runs gas, electricity and grand opera, for a city going on four millions.

Now he arranges to run all the city's elevated, surface and future subway lines. Some yell "monopoly," but that word is out of date. Now, it is "the bigger the better," if the man is up to his job.

PRINCETON'S professor of paleontology, R. M. Field, says powerful protruding jaws on handsome young men, in collar or clothing advertisements, show degeneracy. The receding chin of the Neanderthal man, scores of centuries back, is a better chin, says the professor, because it could grip more tightly, hold more and bigger teeth, than the jaw of the collar advertisement.

THE professor is 100 per cent wrong. Successful men usually have well developed jaws and noses. Thinking develops the nose, will power the jaw. The mind that automatically says, "I can," pushes its jaw out. The receding jaw comes of saying, "I can't." Try it yourself. When you say "I can't," the jaw goes back. When you say "I can," the chin sticks out.

MISS SPENCER, seventy years old, rode to work at the Treasury Department and back on a bicycle, saved and made more than $100,000. She leaves small sums to relatives and the balance, $100,000, for a tombstone. Relatives object, the court is asked to decide.

THE foolish waste should be forbidden. But is is interesting to think of that old Treasury clerk pushing her bicycle back and forth, meditating on the grand figure that she would cut in death with her $100,000 tomb, she, who in life has been only a $1,200 a year spinster clerk. Happiness is largely imagination.

STREITENBERGER, SENTENCED, "TALKS"

Former Canton Detective Must Spend Each July 16, Day of Editor's Murder, in Solitary Confinement.

CANTON, O. May 20.—Floyd Streitenberger has talked.

Behind closed doors in the same room where Louis Mazer "squealed" regarding the Don R. Mellett murder, Streitenberger today gave County Prosecutor Henry Harter, Jr., and Ora Slater, Cincinnati detective, a statement.

Statement Not Made Public.

On the strength of the statement Harter immediately announced that the Stark county grand jury will be called early next week, instead of June 6, as scheduled.

What the ex-detective said, has not yet been made public.

Streitenberger was convicted of first degree murder in connection with the Mellett assassination and sentenced to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary with a stipulation that he spend each July 16 in solitary confinement. At the time of sentence he had nothing to say, according to his attorneys, but later, called for Harter.

Mellett was shot and killed July 16, last.

Implicates Others.

Streitenberger had received his sentence only this morning. Asked at the time if he had anything to say, the convicted man replied in the negative. After being taken to jail, however, he sent for the prosecutor and Slater. Streitenberger's attorneys, J. H. Robertson and Frank T. Bow, and a stenographer were called and the conference was held at the court house.

Shortly afterward, it was reported that the former detective had "told the whole story and implicated others."

It was learned on good authority that one of those named in Streitenberger's confession, was a former police officer on the Canton force.

Additional indictments are expected to be handed down when the grand jury convenes.

Third Man Sentenced.

Streitenberger's motion for a new trial was overruled and his sentence made more binding than either that of Patrick Eugene McDermott or Ben Rudner, sentenced to life terms ahead of him, for their complicity in the crime.

The ex-detective had regained his composure and seemed in fair spirits this morning.

Louis Mazer, Canton bootlegger and state's star witness during the Streitenberger trial, who was jointly indicted in the Meliett death plot, will probably be allowed to plead to a manslaughter charge, sometime today, it was said. His sentence is expected to be fairly light.

LENGEL REOPENS FIGHT FOR JOB

CANTON, O., May 20.—Asserting that he was removed through improper methods, former Chief of Police Seranus A. Lengel plans a serious effort to regain his job.

James Ammerman, Lengel's attorney, today had asked Common Pleas Judge Clevenger for permission to file an amended petition to Lengel's suit, intended to eliminate faults in original pleading.

Judge Clevenger declared he was unable to grant the request without the consent of Judge H. C. Pontius, who represents Mayor Swarts.

The case is not expected to come up before another week.

He had been ill for eleven weeks.

His death occurred exactly three weeks after that of his mother, Mrs. Mary Nolan. His sister, Mrs. Mary Jeffries, died in Wellsville on April 10, 1926, while five months later her husband, Henry Jeffries, a Pennsylvania railroad brakeman, was fatally injured in an accident at Cleveland. Timothy S. Nolan, the father, was the first to die.

Thomas Nolan, the youngest of nine children, was a popular boy. He is survived by four brothers, Daniel, John, Francis and Bernard, and three sisters, Misses Josephine and Elizabeth and Mrs. Mary Barker.

Carl Kelly Faces Assault Count; Wife Struck by Brick

Carl Kelly will face Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning upon a charge of assault and battery, preferred as the result of an attack which he is alleged to have made upon his wife, Mrs. Nora Kelly, at their home in Walnut street Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Kelly, who police say, was struck by a brick, was discharged from the City hospital last night.

SWOLLEN RIVER REACHES CREST

SOLONS VOTE FOR REPEAL OF BAN ON STREET OBSTRUCTIONS

Ordinance Placed on First Reading by 4 to 3 Vote.

DEBATE PROPOSAL

Mayor's Pay Slash Put on Second Reading.

Legislation calling for the repeal of the ordinance, enacted June 17, 1926, prohibiting the obstruction of streets, sidewalks and alleys, was passed on first reading, while another measure, reducing the mayor's salary from $1,800 to $1,200 per year, was approved on second reading by the city council last night.

Vote on the proposed repealer was 4 to 3, Councilmen Goodballet, Hughes, Farrall and Kommel approving it, while Solons Hayes, Kelly and Poole opposed it. Hayes sought to defer action on the measure, reporting that the committee of which he was chairman had been unable to complete its investigation.

Farrall replied that the committee had sufficient time to go into the merits of the proposition and had "failed to reach an agreement." Kommel declared that the ordinance should be rigidly enforced or repealed. Poole expressed the opinion that the measure should be modified without repealing it.

Hayes' motion to defer action for two weeks was lost, 4 to 3, Kelly and Poole supporting his move. The ordinance was then taken up for consideration and placed on first reading, but was halted when an effort to suspend the rules lacked the necessary three-fourths vote. The vote on all roll calls stood 4 to 3.

Prohibit Crook Alley Parking.

Hughes and Kommel opposed the proposed salary slash for the mayor when it was taken up for second reading. Hayes, Farrall, Goodballet, Poole and Kelly voted for it. There was no debate on the measure.

Ordinance prohibiting the parking of automobiles in Crook alley between Fifth and Sixth streets was passed on third and final reading with Farrall, Hayes and Poole voting against it. The ordinance provides a $2 fine for violation of the order.

Thirteen other measures were

Merriman who was accompanied by his wife and two children, parked his automobile near the village building in Hanoverton. During his absence Marshal Merriman discovered seven gallons and one quart of liquor in the car.

The machine was ordered confiscated by the Hanoverton officials.

CAMERA CATCHES "DAREDEVIL"

"Lucky" Lindbergh Shrewd Air Bird

Atlantic Ocean is Just "Big Pan of Water" to Daredevil Whose Flying Philosophy is Simple.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Charles Lindbergh, daredevil who has set the aviation world in a tail-spin, needs a new nick-name.

"Lucky" his friends called him when he saved his life in several close calls by parachuting to safety.

"Flying Fool" the headliners yclept him when he flew from San Diego to New York, enroute to Paris, in a couple of days.

But he certainly is nobody's fool.

He is one of the shrewdest, most level-headed flyers who ever worked a joy-stick. And his sense of direction makes him a veritable bird of the air.

Vision Obscured.

Enclosed in his cabin he sees not where he is flying. A huge gasoline tank blocks his vision forward instruments and closed windows surround him on the sides.

But he never takes his eyes off his

Green purchased the car a few days ago and had no insurance on it.

LINDBERGH'S PLANE BEGINS ATLANTIC SPAN DESPITE MIST

Youthful Daredevil Starts 3,600-mile Flight.

"I'll See You in France," Byrd, Rival Shouts.

ROOSEVELT FLYING FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Braving the perils of rain storms and fog over the north Atlantic, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, the young dare-devil American aviator hopped off on the 3,600 mile, non-stop, trans-Atlantic flight for Paris this morning in his Ryron monoplane, "Spirit of St. Louis." Lindbergh took the air at 7:52 o'clock.

Departs In Misty Weather.

Flying alone and carrying only sandwiches, a few chocolate bars and some distilled water, Lindbergh departed in misty weather. Rain earlier in the night had ceased at 4 o'clock.

His machine was brought here from its hangar at [illegible] at 4:30 o'clock in order to take advantage of the specially prepared runway nine-tenth of a mile in length.

The "Flying Fool," traveled almost a mile, nine-tenths to be exact, before his plane rose from the ground. He flew very low, and passed out of sight of the thousands of watchers at the field at an altitude of only 200 feet.

Byrd Waves Goodbye.

The first of the men who for days have been waiting for good weather to make the hop-off on the long 3,600-mile flight headed straight east as he took the air. The young pilot of the "Spirit of St. Louis" had planned to circle the field three times as a final engine test before starting out on his lone flight, but he evidently changed his mind after leaving the ground, and decided to be on his way without any more delay.

Commander Richard Byrd, who plans to hop off soon in his giant Fokker on the similar expedition, waved good-bye to the young St. Louisian.

"Good luck, old man," he shouted, "I'll see you in Paris."

Lindbergh only grinned.

A great cheer rose from the packed thousands of watchers on the field, who were held back by heavy police detachments, as the silver colored plane, glittering in the faint sun which

MOTHER'S LOVE AND GOD-SPEED ARE WITH DARING DETROIT PILOT AS HE WINGS WAY ACROSS OCEAN

DETROIT, May 20.—Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, 25-year-old "flying fool" has a mother's love and God-speed as he wings his way on the 3,600-mile non-stop trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Paris.

Notified today by the International News Service of her son's hop-off, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, chemistry teacher at Cass Technical High school, said:

"Oh, thank you very much for the information. "My heart and soul is in his work, and I am praying he succeeds."

"Kid Flier's" Take off Praised.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—Captain Charles Lindbergh's take-off this morning on his flight to Paris appeared clumsy and inexpert to the average citizen watching the event, but fliers at the field were profuse in their praise of the "kid flier's" manipulation of his heavily loaded plane over a muddy runway.

"It was beautifully done," said Commander Richard Byrd, who is preparing to take off on a similar flight in his giant Fokker. "Captain Lindbergh knew just what he was doing every minute. God be with him on this trip. He'll probably get there all right. After that take-off I believe he can do anything with his ship.

"He has plenty of gas. It will hold out five hours longer than the thirty-seven he plans to be in the air.

"Never in all my years of flying have I seen such a take-off. It looked as if it would be impossible to lift the plane off the ground. It was marvelous."

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., May 20.—The Bellanca monoplane "Columbia" will be withdrawn from the New York-Paris race if Captain Charles Lindbergh successfully completes the non-stop 3,600 mile flight which he started this morning, an official fo the Columbia Aircraft corporation announced today.

"We wish Lindbergh all the luck in the world," he said, "and if he makes the flight to Paris we will not attempt it. If he should fail the 'Columbia' is ready to start."

A Vivid Springtime Garden Ever Blooming With New Things

STYLE CERTAINTY PRICE SAFETY

Women with that knowledge of what's true and fine in fashionhood—most women have it although some make use of it more than others—are according an enthusiastic reception to the New Spring arrivals here. They are our supreme court. And knowing how unerringly they appraise mere novelty for novelty's sake as the unstable siren it is, it's quite natural that only those styles of certified merit should gain admittance to our collection.

Something new every day this time of the year—Come in often.

D. M. Ogilvie & Co.

Lovely Bandettes and Bandeaux For Girl Graduates

We are displaying a fascinating array of the daintiest bandettes and bandeaux. If you are in doubt as to what to give the girl graduates on your list, choose one of these brassieres to match a graduation frock. It will be an acceptable gift.

Style demands the youthful figure. The beautiful, natural soft curving lines of youth above the waist-line are rapidly replacing the passing flat-boyish figure.

The appealing beauty of the accentuated bust-line giving the true youthful figure is now the ideal of the smartly dressed.

These abbreviated brassieres are comfortable, fashionable and dainty. Ideally comfortable for summer wear.

Included are many styles of the popular Flaming Youth Model. Other attractive brassieres in bandette and bandeaux styles.

All exquisitely dainty—developed of lace, silk jersey, satin, swamee, radium and crepe de chine. White, flesh, honeydew, Nile green, orchid and peach. Narrow shoulder straps of silk ribbon.

Bandettes—Sizes 30 to 36.
Bandeaux—Sizes 32 to 40.
Priced from 50c to $3.00.

A favorite for evening wear is the model without straps. In white, flesh or black satin. Priced at $1.50. All sizes.

Traffic Jams Force Planning Commission To Build Tunnels

ST. LOUIS.—Traffic conditions in the neighborhood of many schools in this city have become so hazardous that a system of tunnels beneath the streets for pedestrian traffic has been authorized by the City Plan Commission.

The tunnels would eliminate the necessity of school children risking their lives in crossing streets through traffic. Points where fatal accidents have occurred would be the first to have the tunnels constructed.

A room so sound-proof that in it the opening and closing of the eye may be heard, has been constructed in a London hospital.

DOUG MACLEAN AT CERAMIC

"Let It Rain" Latest Paramount Comedy Hit.

"Let It Rain," Douglas MacLean's latest Paramount comedy, takes the lad with the million dollar smile from Africa's jungles (remember "Hold That Lion?") and places him aboard one of Uncle Sam's ships as a United States Marine. Strange as it may seem, the title really has a bearing on the story.

Doug is introduced as a happy-go-lucky devil-dog who just doesn't give a darn about anything. If the sun shines, that's fine; if it's so foggy, one can't see two feet in front of him, stay indoors; and if the rain starts falling, why—let it rain! So, his pals nickname him "Let-It-Rain" Riley.

Oh yes, there's a girl. In fact, she's a very nice girl. You've seen her before—Shirley Mason. "It" happens when Shirley comes aboard one day and Doug falls for her. He falls for her both figuratively and literally. You see, the marines have trained the navy mascot to butt anyone who leans over and Miss Mason proceeds to pick up her bag, whereupon "Let-It-Rain" makes a flying tackle, offsets the goat and lands at Shirley's feet.

Nice way to start a romance? You said it! Funny way to uncork the laughs? Impossible to stop 'em! Of course, you may disagree with all of this, but if you've got a sense of humor, "Let It Rain" shouldn't be missed. Even if you have a hard time laughing, come on down anyway. Who can tell, you might change a life-long habit? The picture's at the Ceramic theatre and so're your old marines.

Evangeline's People

One of the many remarkable "angles" of that tremendous Mississippi flood is its reawakening of interest in Longfellow's poem "Exangeline" and the race it represented.

Those who have read that sad, haunting poem in their youth may recall how the simple, pious Acadian peasants were expelled from Nova Scotia in 1755 when they had refused to take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain, and how, like so many leaves whirled by the wind, they were driven to the British colonies to the south, and many of them, still refusing to live under British sovereignty, continued their pilgrimage until they found refuge in the French colony of Louisiana. There, in a very different climate and environment, they settled, re-established their homes and customs, and have continued almost as a separate people until this day.

Now the flood scatters them forth from their homes again. There is no persecution now, save that of pitiless nature. They are harbored in refuge camps and befriended in many ways. But their farms are overwhelmed, their houses are gone, their stock is drowned. They will go back eventually to a sea of mud. They must start all over again.

There is talk now of erecting a statute of Evangeline, the symbol of their past, near the Mississippi. Such a statue stands already at Grand Pre, Nova Scotia, their old home. That would be an appropriate thing, and should be well supported by more fortunate Americans. But sympathy for those Acadian-Americans should go much further than that, in practical ways.

Oli Thrift and Waste

The oil refining industry is surprisingly efficient, but the oil industry as a whole is shamefully wasteful.

Ten years ago refiners were getting 21 gallons of gasoline out of every 100 gallons of crude oil, and thought they were doing very well. Last year they got 34.7 ballons of gasoline out of every 100 of oil, and are doing still better now. By the "cracking" process they have nearly doubled the percentage of gasoline extracted. One barrel of oil will go nearly as far, for automobile use, as two barrels went in 1917.

But in this same period gasoline consumption has increased more than four times, requiring more than twice as much crude petroleum as it did in 1917. So we're not saving petroleum. It is being drawn out of the ground now at the rate of nearly 2,500,000 barrels a day.

How long will the supply last? To that everlasting question no answer can be given. Nobody knows. New fields discovered every little while give the lie to old estimates. But one thing sure—the earth is not full of oil.

Shale oil, when we fall back on that, will be harder to extract, and will cost more. Then when we fall back on coal products for internal combustion engines, the stuff will cost still more.

Explosive fuel is probably cheaper now than it ever will be again. Yet not only are we burning it up as if the supply was illimitable as air, but the producers are leaving about four-fifths of it in the ground, in such condition that we may never be able to salvage much of it.

Small Houses, Good And Bad

Henry Wright, chairman of the committee on city planning of the American Institute of Architects, is quoted as saying that New York suffers from "a scourge of small-house building that is an absolute disgrace to any city."

It is not the size of the houses to which he objects. The ideal small house, set in its own small yard, big enough for the average family, but small enough to be efficiently and inexpensively cared for, pleasing in appearance and sound in construction, is recognized as having an important place in meeting family housing needs.

The small house scourge refers to cheap houses, often constituting a serious fire hazard, put up in a series along a whole block, uniformly ugly in design, made of poor materials, and ready for repairs almost before they have been lived in.

Too many American cities know this scourge from their own experience. It is not confined to the metropolis or other big cities. Architects and builders can perform a valuable public service by co-operating in the solution of the small house problem—eliminating the cheap, ugly sort and encouraging the construction of the well-built, pleasing variety.

Making America Musical

When Walter Damrosch retired last winter from his position as conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, he did not retire from all musical activity. It was recently announced that he is to act as musical counsel to the National Broadcasting company and that he will give a radio course of instruction in music.

It is a step toward the fulfilment of Mr. Damrosch's own prediction that the American people will become "the most musical in the world."

In addition to his knowledge of music and his ability to speak simply and interestingly to people who know very little about it, Mr. Damrosch has also an infectious enthusiasm which inspires his listeners. With his reputation, his ability and his enthusiasm all enlisted on the side of music appreciation for the many, it may be taken as a foregone concluson that education along this line will make much progress in the coming year.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

PARIS, May 20.—Parisian night life is about an hectic as that in Ft. Wayne, Ind. The great Montmartre jazz cafes are dying off like flies in winter. Saves for Belli's where business is far from good, there is not enough to keep one ordinary-sized place going.

The season for high jinks is here, but customers are skittish. Even those assured and enameled ladies who sit about at tables to wink at gullible dotards and induce them to buy wine, and who give the impression of sin coiling under silk, have deserted. The graft was too thin.

In one of the brocaded spots of smug slipperiness that used to be packed to capacity, I counted seven customers last night. Two were obviously timid ladies palpitating with the idea that they were about to see wickedness at its worst.

As I departed the proprietor, whom I have long known, shook his head sadly and said: "This can't go on!" In New York night life is supposed to have withered because of high prices. It seems more likely the jazz idea has spent itself. Paris proves it.

Thrill seekers all over the world are apparently demanding a new deal. Those vaselined young pathological and sadistic gigolos who danced their attendance at so much per dance, have vanished. I saw only two in the entire rounds of Montmartre and their spruce air had become seedy.

Many Broadway night club artists, imported for what was expected to be a lively season, have met with curt dismissals. The proprietors merely pointed to the empty tables with a deprecatory shrug. And there is no hope in London.

The theatres are faring almost as badly. The tarnished revue as the Folies Bergere draws an audience nightly about as large as the Punch and Judy shows along the Champs Elysees. Salaries are at their lowest ebb. The highest paid performer in France is the aging but popular Mistinguett, who receives $100 a day.

Georges Carpentier, the fighter, has turned Thespian and is dancing and singing in a revue that features Florence Walton. He is in the discard now as a pugilist, but France does not forget its idols. He passed in front of the sidewalk tables of the Cafe de la Paix today and all stood up to give him a rousing cheer.

The most distinct impression one receives after a year's absence from France is stagnation. There is something lethargic in the stores, cafes and among the people. The tourist is not besieged by the usual swarm of door to door vendors. There is no coaxing to make sales. The attitude is that of a people who having done their best wait for something to happen. It is not pleasant.

In front of one of the little circular bars today in the rue des Petit-Champs a street acrobat in patched and faded tights unrolled his strip of carpet and in a bored manner went through his contortions. In bending backward to pick up a handkerchief with his teeth he suddenly collapsed like a slowly deflating balloon and laid still. The bar maid rushed out with a pony of brandy which revived him and he moved on. "Faim!" explained the bar maid. He was exhausted from hunger.

Paris, of course, has not lost its sparkle and nerve entirely. During the tea hour in the Ritz open gardens one sees the fine ladies and the monocled dandies. The flirtatious and the audacious. American millionaires and expatriated divorcees. And always Count Boni de Castellane.

Boni is still a fashion plate with military bearing, curly hair thinned on top, ruddy cheeked and with a rose in his lapel. His English is without an accent. He seems neat and innocuous. Something of a thwarted Romeo fatigued by innumerable and inadequate Juliets.

HOW TO SAVE A VALUED FIVE CENTS

Two of the hall room boys—Percy, who is frugal, and Harold who has an eye for a saucy maid—get aboard a street car and take seats.

Sitting almost opposite to them is an exceedingly pretty girl. She glances at Percy, recognizes him, smiles and bows. He raises his hat.

"Gee, what a peach!" comments Harold in an admiring undertone, "and you know her."

"Certainly, I've known her for months," admits Percy. "Rather nice, eh what?"

"I should say so," says Harold, still eyeing the beautiful one. "Say introduce me to her, will you?"

"Sure," says Percy, "but wait a few minutes."

"What's the good of waiting? I can't meet that queen any too soon. Let's go."

"Sh-h-h," warns Percy. "Just control yourself. I'll do it in plenty of time."

"But she might get off the car and then I'd lose the chance."

"No, she won't."

"But there's a vacant place next to her. I want to sit by her going up town. If you don't hurry up somebody might get aboard and drop down alongside of her and then I'd be out of luck."

"If you'll wait just a minute or two," counsels Percy, his eye roving uneasily from the conductor's approaching form to some small object which the charmed holds in her hand.

"Say," demands Harold, "is there any reason why you don't want to introduce me to that girl? Anything wrong about me? Anything wrong about her?"

"Certainly not, Harold," says Percy in hurt tones; "but if you must know, I'm waiting until she pays her fare."

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Cause of Flood Disasters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 20.—The early Egyptians worshipped the great god Ra, the beetle, because, although insignificant in size and a mere insect, his perseverance and numbers enable him to reduce to nothingness some of the greatest works of man. In like manner the people of the Mississippi valley might worship the crawfish for this creature has inundated cities, destroyed many lives, and millions of property.

The crawfish is a water creature but also has a habit of burrowing in the earth banks of the streams it inhabits. The United States Weather Bureau in the course of investigations by its flood division, has discovered that crawfish have burrowed straight through thick levees. This permits a seepage of water to pass.

On account of the strong lateral pressure which exists when the river is at flood stage, the seepage soon becomes a trickle, the trickle soon becomes a stream, and, if undiscovered, the undermining process will cause a section of the bank to give way, letting through a flow of waters which quickly becomes a torrent developing a crevasse which will inundate hundreds of thousands of acres of land, drown cities, and take the lives of human beings and animals. It is all started by the humble crawfish.

Patrols are maintained on the Mississippi river levee banks to watch for just such things, but occasionally the crawfish wins. It is not likely that any malice may be imputed to the creature but, none the less, tremendous damage is caused.

The Weather Bureau's investigations show that breaks causing such floods as have been devastating the Mississippi basin this year are by no means all caused by the water rising to a stage which overtops the levees. Besides the crawfish there is another insidious enemy. It is called a sand boil.

In effect the sand boil is merely a spring. When the river level is higher than the surrounding land and is only held in its bed by the levees, there is a natural tendency for the water to seek its level outside as well as inside of the levees. If the soil is sufficiently porous, the water will press through the banks and boil up as a spring on the landward side. At first there are but a few bubbles. These grow until there is a steady flow through a sort of tunnel in the levee. If not checked, the whole earth structure above the tunnel is undermined, the earth falls in and is carried away, and the waters sweep through, constantly widening the opening.

How To Cure Sand Boils.

Engineers have discovered that there is but one way to stop these sand boils. It is impossible to plug them up but a successful method has been found. A circular dike is built around the sand boil or spring. This is raised to a height a few inches above the level of the river itself. The spring then rises within this circular enclosure to the height of the river level on the other side of the levee but no farther. If the river continues to rise, the circular wall must be raised higher.

All this must be done in the early stages of the development of the sand boil or the undermining will have gone too far and the break will come. So long as the water is coming through a tunnel, the method is successful but not after a breach has been made.

The Weather Bureau has been studying floods for many years and has accumulated much valuable data concerning them.. The general opinion among the experts is that, since the forests have been cut from the banks and therefore there is no local absorption, they are inevitable. Many schemes for flood prevention have been brought to the Bureau, but none has been found practicable, although it is thought that perhaps a combination of several methods might reduce the damage.

One difficulty in the solution of the problem is that all floods are not alike. This year's flood is unlike any great flood which previously has come under the observation of the Bureau. It was brought about by a combination of two causes. First, last year was one of unusual moisture in the Mississippi Basin. As late as last December there were very heavy rains. These saturated the ground to a point where it would hold no more water. That meant that further rain water would immediately drain off into the rivers. Second, this spring saw unusually heavy rains over the largest tributary river of the Mississippi. Usually such rains are scattered and the water is distributed among many streams.

A common cause of floods is the rapid melting of snows at headwaters of tributary streams. The melted snow comes down in torrents and swells the Father of Waters to flood stage. In such cases, it would be possible to impound these melting snows at the source, the headwaters, keeping the water in great reservoirs and using it for power or irrigation. Weather Bureau officials point out that such reservoirs would have been wholly ineffective in this flood as it has not come from the headwaters at all; in fact, most of the streams have no floods at all save near their confluence with the Mississippi.

Various Plans Considered.

Reforestation of the banks and the maintenance and constant improvement of the levees, together with control at the source in cases where floods start at headwaters, would reduce the flood danger, but a really great flood is so tremendous a force that many experts regard it as beyond control of man. The construction of great basins along the course of the river has been suggested, but the experts regard this as chimerical. One tentative survey has been made looking to such a plan with the result that an estimated cost of ten billions of dollars was reached. There the idea was abandoned; it would be cheaper to have the floods.

Flood experts and dwellers in the flood region are inclined, with some justification, to sneer at fanciful suggestions made by outsiders for flood control. When it is realized that the river, in this flood, has reached a width of 80 miles at one point at least and flows at the rate of 1,750,000 cubic feet per second, the control by human agencies seems out of the question.

With the counsel of the Weather Bureau and the Army engineers to aid them, the river people are constantly improving the dikes. The most important types of soil are being sought. In some places mattings are used to fortify loose soil and Bermuda grass is being planted. This grass has a long root which has a tendency to intertwine, making a dense network calculated to hold the earth together.

The problem is no small one. Congress unquestionably will be called upon to cope with it at the next session and many schemes, some of them highly fantastic, are expected to be presented in the form of bills.

Approximately a billion dollars in loss and damage has resulted from the Mississippi floods of the last quarter of a century. The 1913 flood alone cost $163,000,000. The Weather Bureau states that 25 per cent can safely be added to reported losses to cover what have not been reported and the potential and speculative losses. What the cost of the present flood will prove it is too early to estimate, but it will run far in excess of any previous one.

British Death Rate Steadily Decreasing; Figures Made Public

LONDON.—According to the latest statistics of the London County Council, London—Sometimes described as the healthiest big city in the world—is becoming healthier still.

The death-rate appears to be slowly but steadily falling. In 1840 it was 80 per 1000. In 1841 it dropped to 21 per 1000. Then in 1854 it jumped to more than 29, and for years after wards never fell below 21 per 1000.

But the big improvement in London drainage, which began about 1880, and the passing of the Public Health Act in 1891, were factors that soon began to tell very forcibly, and by 1905 the death rate had fallen to about 15 per 1,000. This was about the average of the war. Since the war there has been a steady decline.

DESCRIBES WORK OF LEGION MEN

Importance of converting insurance before July 2, next, was stressed by Rev. Edward Gracey, of Wellsville, national chaplain of the "40 and 8," an ex-service men's organization, in an address Wednesday night before members of St. Mihiel American Legion post, Toronto.

Rev. Gracey was a guest of honor at a dinner and program given by the Toronto organization.

His address dealt largely with the Legion, its aims and ideals and the reason every ex-service man should be a member. He pointed out that the two outstanding efforts of the Legion were the care of disabled buddies and the orphans of those who died. He called attention to the fact that the billions of dollars at present being expended for hospitalization and the soldiers' bonus were obtained chiefly through the efforts of the Legion.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and neighbors for the kindness shown during the sickness and death of our dearly beloved mother. Especially do we thank Rev. Ward, Rev. Johnston and singers, those who sent beautiful floral offerings, also those who kindly donated the use of their cars.

FOUR FILE AS CANDIDATES

D. A. Bunting is Only Mayoralty Seeker to Date.

Clyde Baker, president of Wellsville council, yesterday filed his petition for renomination at the Republican primary in August, his petition being the fourth received by C. N. Brannan, member of the county board of deputy supervisors of elections.

One mayoralty candidate has tossed his hat into the ring; there is one candidate for the treasurership and one councilmanic office seeker.

D. A. Bunting will seek nomination as mayor. C. C. Heitman, of Wells avenue, will be candidate for First ward councilman and Clarence Scott the city treasurership.

All will run on the G. O. P. slate.

GEO. WOODWARD ON HONOR ROLL

The name of George Woodward, of Wellsville, a Pennsylvania railroad blacksmith, recently was placed on the Pennsy "Honor Roll" as the veteran retired from active service.

Mr. Woodward was born in Salineville, Ohio, December 23, 1860, and started his working career as a coal miner in that district, working in that capacity for several years. Anxious to change his position, Mr. Woodward decided to try railroading, and entered the Pennsylvania Railroad service, February 1, 1886, as a blacksmith helper at Wellsville shops, Ohio. He resigned February 16, 1899, to accept a similar employment with the P. & L.E. railroad at McKees Rocks, Pa. Again the lure of the Pennsy service called him and he re-entered the service November 2, 1899, being promoted to blacksmith, January 1, 1902, serving in that capacity until his retirement.

Mr. Woodward married Mary J. Falcon of Salineville, Ohio, on May 6, 1886. They have two children, Carlisle, employed as a machinist, Wellsville, Ohio, and George Allen, at home.

Woodward is a member of the Presbyterian church and fraternally affiliated with the Loyal Order of Moose.

EXTEND CALL TO MINISTER

First Presbyterian Church Votes for New Pastor.

Rev. Harold Post, of Petersburg, O., will be tendered an official call to the pastorate of the First Presbyterian church here within the near future, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rev. Frank H. Magill, former pastor, church officials said today.

At a meeting of the congregation Wednesday night, Rev. Post was unanimously voted to the pastorate. The call to the minister will be issued officially by the presbytery.

CLEAN-UP JOB EXTENDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

City Trucks Collect Rubbish Accumulation in East End.

WORK DIVIDED

No Second Trips Will be Made, Says J. W. Moore.

Because of inclement weather conditions annual Spring Clean-up campaign, which was to have started here last Monday, has been carried over until next week.

Four street department trucks were sent to East End today to remove cans, ashes and similar refuse matter. All material, collected from cellars, back yards and alleys must be placed in boxes or other receptacles where it can be reached by the trucks, which will pass along every street.

The East End will be thoroughly covered today and Saturday. Beginning Monday, the Second ward will be visited for two days. The Third ward will then be canvassed on Wednesday and Thursday, while the last two days of the week will be spent in the Fourth ward.

No second trips will be made to any part of the city by the trucks, according to an agreement between Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore and health board officials, co-operating in the campaign.

Sanitary Inspectors McKeever and Hill will follow the trucks to see that the clean-up orders are carried out. Instructions for the abatement of unsanitary conditions will be issued in cases where there has been no attempt at clean-up.

His scarf catching in the machinery of his auto, which he was repairing, D. J. H. Seymoure was choked to death in his garage in London recently.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

The Seeley Co's. expert, of Chicago, will personally be at the Travelers hotel, and will remain in East Liverpool Wednesday only, May 25. Mr. Seeley says:

The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions.

CAUTION—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. Our expert will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit you if desired. Business demands prevent stopping at any other place in this section.

WORLD'S TONIC ACTS LIKE MAGIC, HE SAYS

Visitor Declares Results Are Wonderful, and Buys Six Bottles.

The World's Tonic druggist was busily engaged recently explaining World's Tonic, when a tall, well dressed man entered the drug store. Engaging the druggist in conversation, the visitor said:

"I am here for the races, and I came to tell you that World's Tonic is really a most wonderful medicine. I want to buy six bottles today, and I want to pay for them now before I go out to the races because I may lose every dollar I have out there. If anything like that happens, I will have the medicine, and believe me, it is worth more to me than money.

"A friend who knew how I had suffered from catarrh of my stomach, sent me two bottles. I must say that it acted more like magic than medicine

"I had been troubled with a dripping mucous from head and throat. It was worse in the fall and winter. Some of the mucous entered my stomach and then my stomach became affected. Food lay in my stomach hours undigested. I suffered from fullness after meals, short breath, dizziness and colic pains. I had pains in the small of my back and under my shoulder blades.

"The truth is that the first bottle of World's Tonic helped me very little, but by the time half of the second bottle was gone I could see that I was improving in every way, and now since taking two full bottles I feel so much better that I want six more."

World's Tonic sold by Carnahans, also Brannon, Wellsville, and all other reliable druggists, at $1.00 per bottle. (283)

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non-stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a lookout for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forced down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Tberle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

Leslie Curran Now Regular Patrolman; Schenkel Extra Man

Leslie Curran, a special patrolman for more than a year, is now a "regular" on East Liverpool's 10-man force.

Curran who was the high applicant among those who took the civil service examination several weeks ago, was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum about a month ago, the appointment becoming effective May 16.

Curran will receive $140 per month during his first year of service after which he will be paid $150.

Elwyn Schenkel will serve as the extra man.

LEGION POPPY SALE SATURDAY

Rain Interfered With Campaign Last Week.

Silk poppies will be sold upon the streets in East Liverpool again tomorrow under the auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion.

Rain interfered with the campaign last Saturday, and as a result more than 2,000 of the 6,000 flowers were unsold. A little less than $400 was cleared during the day.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson, who had charge of the workers last Saturday, will again be Poppy Day chairlady tomorrow. Tomorrow's sale will be conducted by a group of 25 girls and women. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 have been underwritten for the three workers who collect the largest amount during the day.

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Little building. Workers have been requested to report to Mrs. Johnson at 9 a. m.

25 ARE ABOARD GROUNDED SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—With water rapidly filling the after hold, 25 members of the crew of the grounded Indiana Harbor were in peril of their lives today. The freighter, bound from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., went aground on Point Gorda, 10 miles north of here. Hope of saving the vessel has been abandoned.

Three vessels, standing by, have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to rescue the crew. Wind and wave prevented use of breeches buoys or the launching of life boats.

HANKOW FALLS, BURNING REPORT

SHANGHAI, May 20.—Many sensational and unconfirmed reports regarding Hankow were in circulation here today.

One report is that Hankow has been captured and is burning.

"Lucky" Lindbergh

compass. And he knows instinctively whether his direction is right.

His flying philosophy is simple. He wants to go to Paris. He figures out its direction. And off he goes—in a bee line.

Simplicity Itself.

There are no trimmings for the boy (he is only 25 and looks much younger). He has no publicity agents to herald his approach and his departure. He attends no banquets, makes no speeches, and does not allow the plaudits of an admiring world to turn his head.

He is the hero of adventure come to life.

He is almost too good to be true.

The Atlantic ocean is just a "big pan of water" to him. He needs no special provisioning—just "a bag of sandwiches and some water."

He was just a smalle timer in the field of aviation — a commercial pilot who got his training in a school only four years ago; then a "barnstormer" of the air doing tricks at country carnivals, then an air mail pilot — and now a World Hope, bent on conquering the elements which have claimed so many noble explorers of the air the past weeks.

On the field he is just a kid—open-eyed and diffident. In the air he is a master.

May the Powers That Be heed the prayers of a lonely mother in Detroit and spare this hero from the untimely end of so many of his flying brothers.

DENY AIRPLANE WRECKAGE IS "WHITE BIRD"

Piece of Fuselage is Towed Into New London.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane," said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued, however.

shone through a fast disappearing mist, rose from the ground, its engine roaring a last farewell.

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manoeuvers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

MINE WORKER'S FOOT CRUSHED

W. Andrew Walters, 24, residing at 116 Second street, Midland, was brought to the City hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, suffering from a badly crushed right foot sustained in an accident at the plant of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, Midland, shortly before noon.

He received first aid treatment at the mill emergency hospital and was then brought here in the Dennis ambulance. He was attended by Drs. J. A. Helfrich, Midland, and R. J. Marshall.

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Leetonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances, Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacualr course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simbalia property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming," Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the balance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

WASHINGTON THRILLED AS LONE AIR WOLF HOPS OFF

U. S. VESSELS TO WATCH FOR DARING AIRMAN

Officials in State of Watchful Expectancy and Co-operation.

NAVY WILL ACT

No Report Received of Lindbergh's Progress at 8 a. m.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—News that Charles Lindbergh, the lone wolf among the trans-ocean flyers, was at last on his way to Paris on a non-stop flight thrilled official Washington today to a state of watchful expectancy and cooperation.

The Atlantic shipping lanes are dotted with U. S. shipping board vessels, and instructions immediately were issued for all ships to maintain a lookout for the daring young pilot and render assistance if any is needed. Similar orders have been issued to navy vessels, although most navy ships are off Newport engaged in the annual maneuvers. At 8 a. m., no report has been received of Lindbergh's progress.

Ships Watch for Airman.

Shipping board vessels of one type or another are scattered across the Atlantic approxiately every 60 miles, according to shipping board officials.

If the weather in mid-ocean is clair this fact would afford a considerable measure of safety, but if the weather is foggy or Lindbergh should be forc-

Leslie Curran Now Regular Patrolman; Schenkel Extra Man

Leslie Curran, a special patrolman for more than a year, is now a "regular" on East Liverpool's 10-man force.

Curran who was the high applicant among those who took the civil service examination several weeks ago, was appointed by Mayor Ralph Benedum about a month ago, the appointment becoming effective May 16.

Curran will receive $140 per month during his first year of service after which he will be paid $150.

LEGION POPPY SALE SATURDAY

Rain Interfered With Campaign Last Week.

Silk poppies will be sold upon the streets in East Liverpool again tomorrow under the auspices of East Liverpool Post No. 4, American Legion.

Rain interfered with the campaign last Saturday, and as a result more than 2,000 of the 6,000 flowers were unsold. A little less than $400 was cleared during the day.

Mrs. R. W. Johnson, who had charge of the workers last Saturday, will again be Poppy Day chairlady tomorrow. Tomorrow's sale will be conducted by a group of 25 girls and women. Prizes of $5, $3 and $2 have been underwritten for the three workers who collect the largest amount during the day.

Headquarters will be in the lobby of the Little building. Workers have been requested to report to Mrs. Johnson at 9 a. m.

25 ARE ABOARD GROUNDED SHIP

SAN FRANCISCO, May 20.—With water rapidly filling the after hold, 25 members of the crew of the grounded Indiana Harbor were in peril of their lives today. The freighter, bound from San Francisco to Portland, Ore., went aground on Point Gorda, 10 miles north of here. Hope of saving the vessel has been abandoned.

Three vessels, standing by, have so far been unsuccessful in attempts to rescue the crew. Wind and wave prevented use of breeches buoys or the launching of life boats.

HANKOW FALLS, BURNING REPORT

SHANGHAI, May 20.—Many sensational and unconfirmed reports regarding Hankow were in circulation here today.

One report is that Hankow has been captured and is burning.

"Lucky" Lindbergh

compass. And he knows instinctively whether his direction is right.

Simplicity Itself.

There are no trimmings for the boy (he is only 25 and looks much younger). He has no publicity agents to herald his approach and his departure. He attends no banquets, makes no speeches, and does not allow the plaudits of an admiring world to turn his head.

He is the hero of adventure come to life.

He is almost too good to be true.

The Atlantic ocean is just a "big pan of water" to him. He needs no special provisioning—just "a bag of sandwiches and some water."

He was just a smalle timer in the field of aviation — a commercial pilot who got his training in a school only four years ago; then a "barnstormer" of the air doing tricks at country carnivals, then an air mail pilot — and now a World Hope, bent on conquering the elements which have claimed so many noble explorers of the air the past weeks.

On the field he is just a kid—open-eyed and diffident. In the air he is a master.

May the Powers That Be heed the prayers of a lonely mother in Detroit and spare this hero from the untimely end of so many of his flying brothers.

ed down at night his rescue would be largely a hit-or-miss affair.

Instructions were broadcast today to all coast guard vessels on iceberg patrol to watch for Lindbergh.

At 10 o'clock this morning, Admiral Tberle, chief of naval operations, broadcast the following message to all navy ships in the Atlantic:

"Pilot Lindbergh in lane plane "Spirit of St. Louis," single engine monoplane, departed on great circle course for Land's End, England, and Paris, at 6:52 a. m., New York time. Plane not equipped with radio. Request any ships sighting this plane to report that fact."

Praise Lindbergh's Daring.

Naval flying experts were loud in their praise of Lindbergh's daring, but they were frankly pessimistic over his chances for success.

The fact that he chose the great circle course, they pointed out, will carry him north of the shipping lanes, and if he is forced down his chances of being picked up are exceedingly smal las there are few ships plying that course. Nungesser and Coli flew the same course.

They also declared that Lindbergh has only a compass, carrying no navigator, and that compass flying over this route is extremely hazardous and liable to error. If he got off his course they believe he might wind up in Greeland.

DENY AIRPLANE WRECKAGE IS "WHITE BIRD"

Piece of Fuselage is Towed Into New London.

"A-49" MARKINGS

Coast Guard Believes it Part of Rum Running Craft.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The piece of airplane wreckage picked up off the North Atlantic coast and towed into New London is not a part of Capt. Charles Nungesser's missing trans-ocean "White Bird," in the opinion of U. S. coast guard officials, expressed here today after a lengthy telephone report had been received on it from Capt. H. G. Hamlet, commanding the coast guard's destroyer force at New London.

The wreckage, instead of being a wing as reported, was a rectangular piece of fuselage, some 20 feet long and of a silver coloring.

Investigation Goes On.

The markings consisted of a large letter "A," with a perpendicular line running from the upper part of the "A." Below this letter was another smaller letter "A" coupled with the numerals "49," and making "A-49." These latter markings were cut into the framework of the wreckage.

"This wouldn't appear to be Nungesser's plane," said one official. "More likely it is a part of the wreckage of some rum-running plane."

The wreckage was found floating in the water between Block island and Montauk Point.

Further investigation will be pursued, however.

shone through a fast disappearing mist, rose from the ground, its engine roaring a last farewell.

Whereabouts are Mystery.

Five hours after the take off, at 11:52 this morning, Lindbergh's whereabouts were a mystery. Several reports from New England that the "Spirit of St. Louis" had been sighted proved upon further investigation to be false. Army planes had been mistaken for the Ryan monoplane. The last glimpse obtained of the "Flying Fool" was when he turned northeast off Montauk point and started up the coast soon after his take-off.

Lindbergh's preparation for his long flight included but two hours of sleep. He went to bed about midnight, after attending the movies, and left a call for 2:15 this morning. He was up before that time.

Lindbergh's plane carried a total weight of 5,130 pounds, said by officials to be the heaviest load ever taken off the field by a monoplane. The final load of gasoline had been taken aboard just before the start.

Among those to wish the young aviator good luck on the non-stop flight to Paris, a feat which never yet has been accomplished, was Clarence Chamberlin, who had hoped to take off on the 3,600-mile hop before this in the Columbia Aircraft corporation's Bellanca monoplane. Chamberlin's flight is held up by litigation between the corporation and Lloyd Bertaud, his co-pilot. Bertaud was not at the field this morning.

Carries Few Sandwiches.

Lindbergh, who was hardly known to the general public until a short time ago when he made a sensational trip across the country from San Diego in two hops, carried almost no provisions with him. He had a few sandwiches and some water. Not even coffee was taken to assist him on the long trip, which it is hoped will end Sunday morning when the "daredevil" lands in Paris.

The take-off was sudden and unexpected, entirely in keeping with Lindbergh's desire to get away on his great adventure with the least amount of excitement. It was all in the day's work with him. Sudden activity was noted in his hangar early this morning, and a crowd began to collect. The machine finally was taken over to the long get-off runway at Roosevelt Field, and the gas taken aboard.

Lindbergh tested his struts, and went over his plane carefully, and the watchers increased to well over 3,000. As soon as the gas was aboard he climbed to his place, and the engine roared. After a few minutes of warming up, Lindbergh turned to his mechanics and waved that he was about to take off.

As he "gave it the gun" he smiled calmly at the excited crowds, waved to Byrd and other friends, and roared on his way.

Runway Muddy and Bumpy.

The flier took off in the very worst of field conditions. The runway was muddy and bumpy. As the "Spirit of St. Louis" started on his journey it careened from side to side slightly, giving mechanics and officials a moment of intense anxiety. Then as it picked up speed it steadied.

"But he can't take off at that speed, he's going too slow," yelled a mechanic. "Why doesn't he stop?"

Lindbergh was on his way, however, and nothing was going to prevent him from continuing. The silver monoplane bumped along, bouncing on the muddy runway as it picked up, and it was almost a mile down the field that it finally got into the air.

Few moments later nothing was left, the plane having swiftly sped into the mists, straight out toward Montauk Point and the long lonely miles of the Atlantic.

For a few minutes the roar of the engine could be heard, and then there was nothing. "Daredevil" Lindbergh was truly on his way.

Comb Air in Vain.

BOSTON, May 29.—Government and private radio stations along the coast of New England combed the sea by air in vain all the forenoon today for a trace of the monoplane "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying the intrepid Captain Charles A. Lindbergh on a New York-to-Paris hop.

Watchers along the coast sent in three reports—That Lindbergh was over Barrington, R. I., at 9:50 a. m., that a short time later he was over Halifax, a village near historic Plymouth, landing place of the Pilgrims, and again that he was climbing the fog banks over Minot's lighthouse in Massachusetts Bay.

Government officials, however, thought that the plane over Narragansett bay came from the war game manoeuvers at Newport and that the second was one of the planes sent up from the Boston airport to scout the "Flying Fool."

If the fast-traveling monoplane sighted was Lindbergh's he was hugging the shore line from Long Island to escape the dense fog banks that clung over the Atlantic.

Radiograms from steamships stated that the fog was heavy and that visibility was not over a mile.

Sighted Off Bay of Fundy.

METAGHAN, N. S., May 20. — An airplane observed ten miles south of here shortly before 1 o'clock this afternoon was believed to be Captain Charles Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis," enroute from New York to Paris. The plane was headed due east.

Metaghan is a town of about 500 population on the Bay of Fundy. It is 414 air miles from New York.

Lindbergh's Plane Sighted.

BARRINGTON, R. I., May 20.—Flying high and fast through the mist, an airplane thought by watchers to be "The Spirit of St. Louis," carrying Captain Charles A. Lindbergh, from New York to Paris, was sighted at 9:50 a. m. at Nyatt Point. The plane headed in the direction of Mount Hope bay. It was possible, however, that the plane was from the war game manuevers in lower Narragansett bay.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., May 20. — A monoplane thought to be the "Spirit of St. Louis" with Captain Charles A. Lindbergh was sighted over the village of Halifax shortly before 10 o'clock today.

The plane was clipping the edge of the mainland and Cape Cod and was headed toward Massachusetts bay.

The airship was hugging to land apparently in an effort to dodge the fog bank.

MINE WORKER'S FOOT CRUSHED

W. Andrew Walters, 24, residing at 116 Second street, Midland, was brought to the City hospital shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, suffering from a badly crushed right foot sustained in an accident at the plant of the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel company, Midland, shortly before noon.

He received first aid treatment at the mill emergency hospital and was then brought here in the Dennis ambulance. He was attended by Drs. J. A. Helfrich, Midland, and R. J. Marshall.

KIWANIS CLUB MEMBERS VISIT STEUBENVILLE

High School Band Accompanies Delegation of 60.

VISITORS PARADE

East Liverpool Party Awarded Attendance Prize.

Kiwanians from 10 clubs in Columbiana, Jefferson and Carroll counties attended a rally of the Eighth division held in the Fort Steuben hotel, Steubenville, last night. The visitors came from East Liverpool, Salem, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Lectonia, Carrollton, Toronto and Mingo. Four hundred persons were present.

The East Liverpool delegation, numbering about 60, was accompanied by the 46-piece high school band. Two special street cars were chartered, one carrying the band and the other members of the club and board of education and other guests.

Upon their arrival in Steubenville, the local contingent were met by the Steubenville Kiwanians, who were also accompanied by their high school band. The visitors and bands marched from the car stop to the hotel.

The East Liverpool club was awarded the attendance prize, a large gavel, for having the largest representation. Honorable mention went to the Salem club members who traveled the longest distance. The Wellsville club, which also made the trip in a special car, also had a large turn out.

Each of the visiting clubs had a five-minute part in the program. The East Liverpool Glee club sang several numbers. A speciality selection was also rendered by Dr. Clyde Larkins and his quartet.

Howard S. Smith, Dayton, Ohio district governor, made the principal address. A number of short talks were given by visiting club members.

The East Liverpool contingent returned home at 11:30 o'clock.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, May 20.—Sharp decline and recovery of the so-called merger railroad stocks in the stock market today followed the interstate commerce commission's disapproval of L. F. Loree's plan for unification of the Kansas City Southern, Katy and Cotton belt railroads.

Kansas City Southern common stock suffered a loss of 6 points on its first sale of 7,000 shares at $50 a share, but in extremely heavy trading the stock quickly recovered to 533-4. Missouri, Kansas-Texas, (Katy) opened at 43 1-8. Wabash recovered to 71 after its initial sale at 69 1-2.

The same was true of the Nickel Plate merger shares, which sold at their lowest prices at the opening of the market, and quickly recovered. Rock Island, Chicago Northwestern and other of the spectacular performers of the early part of the month also resumed their advances, Rock Island jumping to 103, the highest price in the history of the stock.

The industrial stocks were strong in very active trading, with motors and copper stocks in the lead. American Smelting and Refining continued its spectacuair course. Call money unchanged at 4 per cent.

PUPILS "LISTEN IN" ON COUNCIL

About 75 girl members of the classes in American history and civics of the high school "listened" in at the meeting of the city council last night.

The students, all members of the senior class, were chaperoned by their teachers, the Misses Rubien and Olive Ikirt. They were welcomed by President N. P. Kerr.

Boys of two classes attended the meeting of the legislators two weeks ago.

passed on three readings under suspension of the rules. They were:

Resolution for the grading and paving of Orchard Grove avenue from Smithfield street to the John Simbalia property.

Resolution, transferring $2,500 from the general fund to the safety department fund to pay salaries of policemen and firemen.

Resolution, for the sewering of Aetna alley from Division street to Black Oak alley.

Resolution, to improve Oakwood avenue by grading and paving.

Resolution, to improve West Sixth street from Monroe street to West alley, by paving.

Ordinance, authorizing the service safety director to pay Peter Milliron $346.33 as interest on sewer improvement contract completed in 1923.

Table Eighth Street Ordinance.

Ordinance to improve Crook and Diamond alleys by resurfacing with reinforced concrete.

Ordinance to improve Garfield street by grading.

Ordinance to establish grade on St. Clair avenue, between old corporate line and Park boulevard.

Ordinances fixing boundaries of wards, so as to include recently annexed territory.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the Edgewood and Hazel street sewers.

Ordinance to levy special assessments for the improvement of Riley avenue, Ryder street and Coal alley.

Ordinance directing the service director to advertise for bids for a fire truck chassis, fire chief's car, police department car, and hose reel.

Another ordinance to provide $5,500 worth of bonds to pay the city's share in the West Eighth street improvement deficit and a resolution providing for the purchase of a new fire truck at a cost not to exceed $12,000 were tabled. The former piece of legislation will be enacted after the county commissioners submit an itemized cost of the improvement showing the deficit.

Better Fire Protection Urged.

A delegation of fire insurance dealers urged that immediate steps be taken to strengthen the fire department in keeping with the recent recommendations of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

James S. Hilbert, spokesman for the delegation, declared that many of the long established insurance companies were withdrawing from the East Liverpool field because of lack of adequate fire protection here. Declaring conditions to be "alarming," Hilbert said that steps must be taken to provide better fire protection or that fire insurance rates would be advanced. He declared that the fire department was undermanned, the water supply inadequate, fire alarm system was faulty and that there was no supervision over construction work, thus increasing fire hazards.

Council promised to investigate in an effort to remedy conditions.

A committee of propery holders from Erie street and Dewey avenue appeared before council in behalf of a petition protesting against the grading of the two thoroughfares. The petition was signed by 17 persons said to represent a majority of the foot frontage on the two streets. Council indicated that legislation for the grading of these two streets would be halted.

Tanyard Run Sewer.

The ordinance committee was instructed to prepare legislation for the sewering of Tanyard run along West Eighth street, near the Litten gasoline station. The city will pay $1,500 toward this improvement, the filling station owners contributing the nalance. A letter was read from the Pennsylvania Railroad company declining to participate in this improvement which, they claimed, would be of no benefit to their property.

Councilman Farrall declared that he was opposed to paying the "people's money" for the improvement of private proerty. Goodballet charged that the city had refused to share in the construction of sewers in East End and in Daisy alley on a 50-50 basis, and to be consistent council could not accept the offer of the Litten interests. Upon the motion, Hayes, Kelly, Poole and Hughes voted "yes," while Farrall, Goodballet and Kommel voted "no."

After a petition said to represent 61 per cent of foot frontage was presented, council instructed the ordinance committee to bring in legislation for the resurfacing of West Ninth street from Fenton to Lisbon street.

The street committee offered no recommendations upon the proposed reduction of the street assessments for the improvement of West Eighth street. A delegation of property holders along the street attended the meeting.

Order Playground Clean-up.

President of Council Kerr called the solons attention to the condition of the city playground which he said should be cleaned before it is opened for the summer. The service director was instructed to clean the lot.

Councilman Kelly reported that he had been unable to arrange a conference with traction officials to discuss a proposed extension of the Thompson park line franchise. Clerk Shone was instructed to arrange for a conference between the franchise committee and street car company officials.

Council also instructed the service director to construct concrete bottoms under the Pennsylvania avenue, Virginia avenue and First avenue bridges over the run which crosses these streets. This will prevent clogging and overflowing in event of heavy rains, it was argued.

SINCLAIR GETS JAIL SENTENCE, BUT APPEALS

Multi-millionaire Oil Magnate Also Fined $500.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Smiling and Apparently Unperturbed, he Posts Bonds.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Harry F. Sinclair, multi-millionaire oil magnate, was sentenced today to three months imprisonment in federal prison for contempt of the United States senate. He also was fined $500.

Sentence was pronounced by Justice Hitz, in district supreme court before whom the oil magnate was tried and convicted some weeks ago of refusing to answer questions propounded to him during the senate's investigation of his lease of the Teapot Dome reserve.

Sinclair, however, will not begin to serve his sentence, as his attorneys have appealed the conviction to higher courts, and will eventually take it to the supreme court, if necessary.

Sinclair, smiling and apparently unperturbed, posted $5,000 bonds and left the court with his lawyer, Martin W. Littleton of New York who told the court that as the law stood in 1924 congress was without power to compel testimony of witnesses.

Sinclair's appeal will be argued first in the appellate court.

MARION NIXON AT THE STRAND

"Down The Stretch" is Thrilling Drama of Turf.

There is more drama enacted behind the grand stand than before it, and that is the drama which goes to make "Down the Stretch," the Universal Jewel production, which opens an engagement at the Strand theatre today.

Not that King Baggot has not provided a thrilling horse race in his picturization of Gerald Beaumont's last story of the turf for he has, but it is the human drama that takes place out of sight of the paying public that "Down the Stretch" is rich and different.

Jockeys are not always whipping their horses across the finish line as winners nor do they wear their bright silks to dinner. The little fellows who ride the big thoroughbreds have hearts and troubles and joys the same as those who crowd the stands on derby day.

Gerald Beaumont, the greatest master of sporting stories the world has known, penned a gripping story of just these moments in "Down The Stretch" and King Baggot faithfully depicted it on the screen.

The cast, one of the strongest ever assembled by Universal, is headed by those two sterling young players, Marian Nixon and Robert Agnew and includes Ward Crane, Ena Gregory, Ben Hall, Jack Daugherty, Virginia True Boardman and Lincoln Plummer.

French or foreign firms in France who wish to employ workers not of French nationality must now get government permission to do so.

YANKEES WITH TROOPS IN ORIENT MUST STUDY CHINESE LANGUAGE

WASHINGTON, — New woes have been stored up for the doughboy officers stationed with the 15th Infantry at Tientsin, China. Now they must learn to converse in Chinese, and the difficulty of this task may readily be inferred from the fact that China has several hundred dialects and from the further knowledge that the major dialects have scores of words or characters in ordinary usage which have as many as five and six widely different meanings.

Heretofore only the language officers detailed with the regiment were required to speak Chinese, but because of the disrupted political and military situation of the country the commanding officer of the outfit has found it necessary to form a language school for the benefit of all the officers under him so that their lack of knowledge of the language will not lead them into misunderstandings with the native militarists and political leaders.

According to the instructions recently issued, all officers upon joining the regiment will be required to attend language classes for 10 hours a week for six weeks and after that six hours a week until the prescribed course has been completed. This preliminary course will last 12 months, but the officers must thereafter attend two or three instructions periods every week during the remainder of their tour of duty in China in order to keep their Chinese brushed up at all times.

Sawdust, which once was wasted, is now being used in the making of linoleum, dolls, dynamite and other things as the result of recent experiments.

On one of the new ocean liners children have an exclusive deck where they may enjoy childhood sports under the supervision of an attendant.

Body by Fisher

You have frequently heard that the Greater Oakland Six is built to standards of accuracy once thought impossible except in hand-built cars. And perhaps you have doubted the statement, believing that no car so low in price could possibly be manufactured with such scrupulous super-precision.

But if you could see the Greater Oakland Six being built, your own eyes would convince you. You would see piston pins rejected if they varied more than two ten-thousandths of an inch—one-fortieth the thickness of an average human hair.

You would see all revolving parts, from crankshaft to rear axle, being balanced as a unit to such a degree of accuracy that the pleasure of owners is never marred by transmitted vibration.

You would see operation after operation equally unusual, even in a plant where higher priced cars are being built—

—for Oakland is going to unheard-of lengths to keep the Greater Oakland Six the best-built car of its price in the world; to enhance to an even more marked degree its reputation for stamina, long life and low cost maintenance.

$1095 SEDAN

Oakland Six, $1025 to $1295. The New and Finer Pontiac Six, $775 to $975. All prices at factory. Delivered prices include minimum handling charges. Easy to pay on the General Motors Time Payment Plan.

24-Hour Delay Helps Sharkey, Says Critic; Favored By Distance

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Give us a chord, professor! Tra-da-da!

All right now, here they are again; just as good as ever, which isn't as bad as it sounds. The same principals, the same scene, the same distance, promoter and crowd. Merely a different evening. Everything else is the same, folks, but the evening must be different or your money back provided you catch us—and we have it.

For it rained real rain all over the Jimmy Maloney-Jack Sharkey heavyweight elimination extravaganza at the Yankee Stadium last night and the boys simply couldn't go for an airing, as scheduled. But tonight is another night and so the twice told tale goes in to its second edition with the folloy synopsis:

The principal: Jimmy Maloney and Jack Sharkey, survivors of Tex Rickard's heavyweight championship tournament.

The distance: Fifteen rounds as as much less as either man cares to make it.

The time and place: Tonight at the Yankee Stadium.

The reward: Not less than $75,000 apiece and the right to become the official heavyweight challenger, unless Dempsey declares himself in.

The winner: Jack Sharkey for my money; yes the whole dollar, twenty-nine.

For Sharkey seems to the writer to be a slight sounder bet because of the postponement. In the first place, his cut eyelid has had the healing ministrations of additional time. In the second, Maloney is the type of athlete who might experience greater difficulty in holding his physical edge over an extra night.

Some maintained, indeed, that Sharkey's condition will improve through the additional 24 hours, basing their contention on the notion that he had worked too hard previous to sustaining the injury to his eye. As to that, I cannot say nor can few guess the physchological result of the postponement on either man. Both appeal to the writer as being highly strung, although Maloney actually has been called stolid. I think he is about as stolid, under that clam exterior, as a buck and wing dancer.

The distance favors Sharkey, for apparently he has the stamina of the old timer who counted twenty rounds a mere workout. Maloney never has gone above ten rounds in his life and possibly will know too little about rating his speed through the middle of the fight. Previous to the Delaney match, he was supposed to have a tendency to blow up in the late rounds. That, however, was one of several things he was supposed to do that night and didn't.

Finally, Sharkey's superior speed should enable him to make the fighting what he wants it to be. He hasn't Maloney's punch but he can outstep and out-think him and God nor man could ask no more. In brief, it should become a duel of left hands and I think Sharkey's is the better. Maloney's real sock is in his right hand but if he can cross that to the chin tonight Sharkey is considerably less the boxer than I think he is.

Maloney's advantage is in being a combination fighter-boxer with a punch that really has some authority. But precedent and distance of the fight is against him.

Precedent is found in the two out of three decisions Sharkey has gained in previous fights between the men who come from the same town of Boston, which bred the immortal Sullivan and never lived to regret it, and yet dislike each other with a great, undying sincerity. Maloney won the first fight when both were just a couple of young fellows, doing the best they could. But Sharkey took the next two in such a way as to convince everyone, even Maloney they say, that he was the better man.

Jack got off the floor six or seven times to win the second fight, which may or may not indicate that he is the tougher man, also. However, I will say this against his chances and say it with some emphasis:

He has won this fight in conversation too many times to really do himself much good when he tries to win it is in the ring. I might feel more sure of Sharkey if he felt less sure of himself. Tunney had the perfect attitude at Stroudsburg in declaring that he expected to be on the floor at least twice against Dempsey.

Bentley to Newark.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Jack Bentley, the southpaw with the corkscrew windup, has been released to the Newark club of the International league, the Giant's new farm. Hailed as one of the greatest pitchers ever developed in the minors and reputed to be a home run hitter to boot, Bentley came to the Giants from Baltimore but never became a star. He was sold to the Phillies but returned to the Giants this season.

CORDS BEAT BILLIARDS AT CHESTER

Riley Nine Ties With Turk Nash for Second Place.

Playing under almost constant threat of rain the Chester Superior Cords defeated the American Billiards by one run last night at Smith Field and went into a tie with Turk Nash for second place. The final count was 7-6.

Both teams used two pitchers and the Americans a brace of back-stops young Amos succeeding Manager Pat Sullivan behind the stick. Zorzie, a former Chester reserve hurler, started for Chester, and was found for three runs, although a bad heave to first by Vanaman in an effort to complete a double play aided in the attack. Two walks and a single also helped the visitors.

Evans went to the mound in the third. Except in the sixth when four hits and an outfield error gave the opposition three runs he blanked the Billiards regularly.

The Billiards opened with three runs in the first frame. Chester counted one in the first, another in the second and went ahead with three runs in the third. Two more in the fourth gave the Cords a total of seven. Eight men wielded the stick for the Billiards in the first of the sixth when three runs crossed the plate.

With the score seven to six in favor of Chester and going to bat for the last time, the Billiards were retired by the strikeout route in the last of the seventh. Carey and Fowler fanned in turn. Howell walked and Moore, breezing, retired the side.

Lou Gehrig On Rampage

Clouts 9th Homer, Tying Babe; Boosts Average to .425.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, May 20.—As the Yankees, with a seven game winning streak, continue to rip the western teams to shreds, the big gun in their attack is not Babe Ruth, but Lou Gehrig. The husky first baseman clouted his ninth home run of the season against Cleveland yesterday, tying Ruth, and also boosted his batting average to .425, the highest percentage for regulars in either league.

Gehrig also has made more hits and scored more runs than any player in either league. No other American League slugger has hit more doubles or triples. Pitchers who formerly passed Ruth to get at Gehrig are now pitching to the Babe and handing out free transportation to the former Columbia star, and Colonel Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks, has horrid visions of being saddled with another $70,000 contract.

Deacon Wilcey Moore, the demon pallbearer, shared honors with Gehrig yesterday. After relieving Shocker he blanked the Indians for seven innings and bunted in a run in the ninth that gave the Yanks a 4 to 3 decision.

A home run by Ken Williams in the tenth inning enabled the Browns to nose out the Red Sox, 6 to 5, after Boston tied the score with a four run rally in the ninth. Melillo got four hits. The Browns have won five of their last six games, and are tied with the Athletics for third place.

Al Thomas of the White Sox registered his sixth victory of the season in winning a 3 to 0 decision over Lefty Grove of the Athletics. Ty Cobb got two hits and has batted safely in his last nineteen games.

Although he allowed only five hits, Owen Carroll of Detroit, former king of eastern college pitchers, lost a 3 to 0 duel to Hollis Thurston of Washington. Rigney's triple in the seventh broke up the game.

LOCAL TRACK TEAM IN PITT MEET SATURDAY

English May Get Chance to Match Speed With Miller, Washington, (Pa.) High School Flash.

Elmer English, high school sprinter and figured on as one of the Blue and White's chief point getters at next week's county field meet, probably will match speed with the Washington (Pa.) high school flash, Miller, at the University of Pittsburgh interscholastic meet tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

English and five other local lads will wear the local colors in the western Pennsylvania contests.

Miller has been going great in Keystone state events up until the present time, but local followers are confident that English can match him, step for step and stride for stride.

English will run the 100, the 220 and the 440, as well as the relay. Deems will be entered in the half-mile and should bring home some points. O'Hanlon is the mile entry and Kirkham is figures to do some scoring in the discus, shot put and javelin.

Deems, Ward and Lisk will run with English in the relay, while Ward likely will be entered in the 220-hurdles as well.

The squad will leave tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock in automobiles.

SHARKEY IS OFFERED $150,000 TO LAY DOWN

Report Gambler Talks With Manager Johnny Buckley; Tex Rickard to Investigate.

NEW YORK, May 20. — A report that a gambler had offered a $150,000 bribe to Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, if Sharkey would "lay down" in his bout with Jim Maloney here tonight, stirred Promoter Tex Rickard to action this morning.

"If any attempt was made to bribe Sharkey, it will be taken up with the district attorney," Rickard declared

The name of the gambler, who is alleged to have made the offer to Buckley at a hotel here on Wednesday night, was not revealed. Buckley said he kept the matter quiet as long as possible in order not to cause Sharkey worry.

Lindstrom Out of Lineup.

NEW YORK, May 20.—Freddy Lindstrom, brilliant young third baseman, may be kept out of the Giants' lineup indefinitely because of an injury to his back, it was learned today. A bone has been chipped off his vertebrae, and the injury has been blamed for Lindstrom's recent batting slump.

NATIONALS COP 8-5 TILT

Defeat Roselawns in Postponed Game Playoff.

One of the Review-Tribune Recreation League's postponed games was erased from the list last night when the National Furnitures defeated the Roselawns in a fast, well played contest at the playground, the engagement going 10 innings before the Furnitures got the decision.

The Roselawns got away first, counting three times in third inning. The Furnitures went ahead in the first of the sixth with a four run attack but Charley Kidd's gang came back in their half of the same frame to knot it up.

Roselawns pushed another runner over in the seventh, giving them a one-run lead which, however, was lost when the Furnitures scored in the ninth, the tally standing 5-5.

The Furnitures then proceeded to grab off three runs in the tenth while the opposition went scoreless.

MODERN EDUCATION'S DEFECTS POINTED OUT BY CONGRESSMAN

By Charles P. Stewart.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—When I was a kid I was taught that the more schooling you had the better.

Grammar school wasn't enough; high school barely.

THOMAS B. FLETCHER

If you wanted to be any better than an ignorant foreigner you had to go to college. You might forget all about it later but it disciplined your mind anyway.

We didn't all go but the kid who didn't was regarded as having overlooked his life's best bet or having been robbed of something.

It was felt also that some college had been film-flammed.

NOW, about every so often, the president of one or another of our big universities breaks out substantially as follows:

"Too blame high a percentage of the kids who attend this institution of learning are congenial boneheads. College can't do anything for 'em. They oughta be out earning a living. They waste their time here. What's more, they waste OUR time.

"There oughta be some way of keeping kids OUTA college who got no business there."

AT first I thought this was a new kind of college professorial snobbishness. Then it got so persistent it puzzled me. Finally I decided to investigate.

For educational lore, call on Congressman Brooks Fletcher.

He's on the house education committee. In my opinion he's the crackerjack member—anyway the crackerjack OHIO member. Besides, he worked in a steel mill after HE got out of college, so I felt sure he wasn't snobbish.

"WHY, you see," explained the congressman, "colleges originally were intended to fit candidates for just three callings—the church, law and medicine.

"Their training was almost indispensable in any of these callings; to the aspirant for a steel mill job it was mighty little use.

"College courses have been immensely broadened since then, but they haven't kept pace with the increase in the number of our occupations.

"The university president who says certain students aren't the right raw material for his institution means rather that his institution hasn't anything to offer that those students need."

"EVEN," continued the representative, "if a university has a line of study perfectly suited to a given student's requirements and he's taking something else, they're wasting one another's time.

"Before a student's admitted to any institution of higher learning, it should be determined what training will do him the most good.

"If he himself doesn't know, it's the school's business to investigate until it finds out. Otherwise, yes, unless by pure accident, his education will be a waste of time."

"SUPPOSE," said the Ohio congressman, "a sick man called at a hospital and asked to be operated on.

"'What for?' asks the superintendent.

"'What operations have you?' inquires the patient.

"'We have an operation for appendicitis that's given good results in many instances,' says the doctor, 'or we can trephine your skull, or we can give you a nice amputation of the leg.'

"'Go ahead,' says the patient, 'and amputate my leg.'

"A nice way to pick out an operation!—without a diagnosis, to find out what ails the man.

"No more can an education be picked out arbitrarily, to fit any and every case."

Let us assume that once there was a criminal who actually preferred execution to life imprisonment. He was the exception to prove the rule.—Marion Star.

Colorado May Get Call for Summer Home of Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 20.—An early announcement is expected from President Coolidge as to the location of the summer White House.

Col. E. W. Starling, U. S. secret service, returned today with a personal report for the president on sites in six states—Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colarado, Iowa and South Dakta. The president will make his choice after conferring with Starling.

While earlier indications favored a site in Wisconsin, the president's physicians have been urging him to seek altitude, and for this reason Colorado may get the call.

Governor Donahey Signs Four Bills Recently Enacted

COLUMBUS, O., May 20.—Governor Vic Donahey today announced that he had signed four bills, recently enacted by the Ohio legislature, as follows:

The Sullivan bill, increasing the state's share of inheritance taxes and providing for an approximate increase of $500,000 a year in the state's revenues.

The Lefever bill, providing for appointment of attorney-examiners to aid the state utilities commission in relieving its congested docket, and authorizing the commission to employ and discharge its own employes.

The Jones bill, providing for an adjustment of the tax rate of a taxing district situated in two, or more, counties, and defining the fiscal officer in townships as the township clerk.

The Cross bill providing penalties to be imposed upon persons who remove improvements from mortgaged property.

SYNOPSIS.

LARRY GRENFALL, American traveler and student of Eastern magic, receives a telephone call from BEN MANSOUR, cosmopolite and old friend, saying he must see him at once. Larry goes and Mansour tells him he is about to die and that he wants him to go to Morocco, where he, Mansour, is a sherif or native ruler. He is to find the Temple, endure the Ordeal, crush the Group and put Mansour's son on the throne. A Moor appears and gives Mansour a token, a ruby ring which Larry later wears. The Moor also throws into thee room a tiny ivory tiger—the Striped Death, Mansour dies and his body disappears—carried off by the Moors. Larry goes to Morocco, finds OMAR BEN MEDJAD, who dresses him as a wizard, and as Youssef el-Habbassi he starts on his travels.

Larry demonstrates his gifts as a wizard to a Moor he meets, who proves to be Omar, who has disguised himself to test Larry.

CHAPTER ELEVEN.

They turned back to the road and resumed their toil upward through the hills. The scenery was now becoming rugged. The air was redolent of lavender and they made their way between walls of fragrant broom, mastick trees and zizypnus; arbor vite and iron wood, while the fragle scent of lotus tinted the air with a delicious, luring smell. Larry had never seen anything so vividly colorful.

After a time they left the main highway and turned into a lesser thoroughfare and now they traversed a veritable bower of beauty. Gigantic bushes of Spanish broom, ruddy clusters of pimpernel and snowy white lady's smock hemmed them in on either side, liberally interspersed with deep, golden sprigs of sweet musk, balsam, tufted horesshoe vetch and queenly, delicate asphodel. Crane's bill and tiny bird's-eye, blue and pink larkspur and hardy thyme; ox-eye and mignonette, all were mingled here bathed in the mellow glow of the hot, slanting sun.

As the way became steeper the floral scenery grew more magnificent and now there was added the comonnile daisies, purple convolvulvi; mild, scentless mustard and dainty shades of blue and purple iris here and there; there were red adonis, myrtle and jessamine, a literal fairlyand for flower lovers.

"'Tis a pity that where so much beauty lies intrigue should be so rampant," Larry said, and Adbesselam turned to answer. But before he could speak a voice reached them, a droning sing-song voice that was suggestive of the minaret muebbins.

"Allah akbar! Allah akbar! God is great, God is great. There is no God but God and Mohammed is his prophet. Come to prayer. Allah akbar! There is no God but God."

Startled they looked about them then Omar swiftly prostrated himself in the road, Larry following his lead. It was the call to the aser, the afternoon prayer.

As the prayer ended Larry gazed about him and saw a small hut, the hibitation of a saint, or holy man, almost hidden by towering rocks. Now watching the door of the squalid domicile, he saw a burly man emerge. Evidently he had been inside to prayer. By the cut of the man's jib Larry set him down on the instant as a Berber and pprobably one who was unattached, owing allegiance to no tribe. The man's garish dress indicated that he might be a hill outlaw. The fellow's eyes met Larry's and he spoke.

"I," he said, his voice heavy and swaggerong, "am Beni Ahmed. Who, in the name of Allah, are you?"

"I am Abdesselam el-Hadj," Omar said, before Larry could speak, "and my companion is the one the mountain tribes have heard was coming—Youssef el-Habbassi, the wizard."

Beni Ahmed's thick lips curled as he jangled his sword.

"A wizard, eh? It is in my mind that 'twere better to depend on cold steel to carve out the happenings of the future than to depend on a magician to reveal what is in store. How think you, Abdesselam el-Hadj?"

Larry felt Omar's elbow nudge him gently.

"I am not one who may say, Beni Ahmed. Truly, I have seen this wizard do marvelous things. He did read for me an event of the past, which of a surety he could have had no knowledge of, yet did he make it glow as a picture on the face of a burnished lake; and I saw that which I knew to be the truth."

"Then, let us test the wizard," said Beni Ahmed. "Read my future for me, Father of Wisdom, and say what you see written there?"

Larry damned his companion sincerely, if silently, for creating this trap—unintentional, of course, but nevertheless a trap. Had it been a simple feat of legerdemain he would have fallen in with the idea willingly, but this taing of reading a man's future was something else again, especially since the fellow seemed an outlaw, and in all likelihood a tool of the man whose price was highest in the bidding for his services.

But there was nothing for it save to play the part Omar had assigned to him, so boldly, he looked into the face of Beni Ahmed, then, starting solemnly he centered his eyes on the other. After a minute of this Beni Ahmed shifted restlessly.

"Well," he roared gruffly, "what halts your tongue? Cannot you see through my thick skull and read what is written there?"

"Nay, Beni Ahmed," Larry answered, forced to speak, his mind racing for an idea, "it is not that I fail to read what it written, but it is not in my heart to tell you what I read."

Despite his bold bearing and his scoffing manner, Beni Ahmed's face was briefly distorted by an uneasy twist of his features. He asked:

"You find that which you do not like. Is that it?"

Larry bowed.

"Then, tell it, that I may know. He who knows what awaits ahead is armed against all evils, is he not? Speak, wizard, and tell me if this you see is anything that my long sword will not carve from my path."

Larry now gazed solemnly at Beni again and spoke in a heavy, sonorous voice:

"I see, Ben Ahmed, that on the third night from this you shall die by a hand unknown to you at this hour. Did I not say I had not the heart to read?"

The other's face paled on the instant, then his bold eyes flared.

"Bah, wizard; you are either a great liar or a bad guesser. On the third night from this I shall be with one who stands high in the Group. I shall be in a city of walls. You cannot have foseen my future."

Larry knew he could do nothing less now than carry through to a finish what he had started.

"Nevertheless, it is written, Beni Ahmed."

With never a word the Berber drew his long, curved sword and it flashed about his head, dropping in an arc

She Got Rid of Those Two Bad Mornings

Menstruation is a perfectly natural process, but the painful part is NEEDLESS. Long study has absolutely conquered menstrual pain. Science now offers women reliable and complete relief—in a simple, utterly harmless tablet called midol.

This newest achievement of the laboratory has nothing to do with drastic, habit-forming drugs that kill pain by benumbing the whole system! Midol acts directly on the organs affected by menstruation, and nowhere else. Yet relief and absolute comfort come in five to seven minutes!

So, why have a twinge of pain—feel "low" or even uncomfortable? Or take anything to depress the heart or upset the system? All drug stores have midol in a thin aluminum box that tucks in purse or pocket—for 50 cents.

SOME TASTY SALADS

Recipes by Ann Page—Ingredients by Your A & P Store

LETTUCE, served alone or as base for mixed salads, is a daily necessity for Spring meals. Select a firm head of lettuce, wash and drain. Cut crosswise into thin slices (as you would slice oranges), arrange 3 small sardines on each serving, and garnish with fancy bits of pickled beet. Drench with a tart French dressing.

Stuffed Celery is an appetizing luncheon dish. Separate the stalk into single pieces. Wash and dry. Fill the hollow of each piece with a mixture made of ½ cup cream cheese, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chopped pickle, and mashed sardine to taste.

Butterfly Salad is a pretty salad to serve as a course. Cut pineapple rings in two, and place on plate with curved sides touching. These form the wings. Make a body of cream cheese; and feelers, two thin strips of pimento. Maraschino cherries placed on the wings make the spots.

Strawberry Salad is new and tasty. Mix 2 cups of fresh berries and 1 cup of cream cheese broken in small pieces. Fold into ¼ cup of heavy cream, whipped. Serve on lettuce.

Pea and Celery Salad is made by combining 1 cup of cooked peas and 1 cup chopped celery with mayonnaise. Place each portion on lettuce and add a dash of onion salt.

Are you tired of the same old salads? Do you want some new ones? Drop me a card and I'll send you my new salad recipes, 16 crispy, springy salads.

COOLIDGE'S 1928 INTENTIONS NOT LIKELY TO BE ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, May 20. — Your choice of two theories is available as to President Coolidge's plan for 1928

That he's going to run again and that he isn't going to run again?

Oh, yes, you can put it that way if you like.

That doesn't mean much, though. Any dumbbell knows he must do one or the other of those two things.

At least one of the two choices I'm referring to is the kind of a choice it takes some brains to understand. It explains why the president's so reticent on the third term issue, even if he doesn't mean to run again. It makes sense.

PRESENT indications are that Cal's going right into the 1928 convention without announcing whether he's a candidate for a renomination or not.

This certainly will be interpreted as meaning that he is.

If, up to that stage of the game, he hasn't said anything about the third term issue, it will be assumed that he considers it an issue best left alone.

On that basis he'll be renominated, according to theory No. 1.

THEORY No. 2 is that he thinks his acceptance of a renomination would generally be regarded as a bid for a third term, that he's opposed to it, or doesn't believe he could get away with it, and that he doesn't intend to try.

Yet theorists in class No. 2 opine that the president will, nevertheless, let the 1928 convention open up without ever having expressed himself on the subject either of his own renomination or a third term.

They predict that everything will look, up to the very last minute, as if Cal's renomination were absolutely assured.

And then—

It will be somebody else.

That's theory No. 2.

BUT if President Coolidge doesn't intend to run to succeed himself, why (you ask) doesn't he say so now, and give other candidates a chance to line up their forces?

Precisely. If he gave them the chance, that's just what they'd do. Until he gives the word, they can't.

He has his candidate all picked out.

If others break it, with plenty of time to get 'emselves "set," who knows who'll win?

If, however, Cal can keep everything sewed up until the very psychological moment arrives, and then deliver his backing, solid, on the convention floor, to his man—

Why, it'll be all over before the echo of the convention chairman's gavel's first whang has died away.

THAT'S the choice of theories Washington's offering now.

I give 'em without prejudice. They come straight enough, but you get lots of straight tips that aren't so. Besides, they can't both be right.

Herbert Hoover's is the name you hear mentioned in connection with theory No. 2—not Frank O. Lowden's or Nick Longworth's or Charles G. Dawes'.

that reflected the slanting sunbeams and under his heavy, chopping stroke the air seemed to shiver.

"Now," said the Berber heavily, "I shall be alone on the third night save for the agents I go to meet. Since they seek my services, and at a high price, it is folly to think any one of them would kill me unaware to myself. Bah! It is in my mind that you are either a fool or a liar. My sword is my protector."

"Nothing under Alah shall avert your fate, Beni Ahmed," Larry said, voice calm.

They heard the saint whining dolefully and turned to see him rolling his eyes, and praying that the harsh talk before his domicile might be forgiven, since he had had no hand in it.

"Allah avert the evil that will come on my head for this day's sorrow," he said. "Oh, Wizard, why did you read? Sorcerer, begone."

"It was written," Larry said once more, voicing the time-worn platitude of the country. Then he calmly turned his back on the Berber outlaw. The latter at once strode off through the shrubbery and Omar plucked at Larry's arm.

"We must go," he said, "for the hour grows late and we still have far to travel.

SAMUEL RIPPETH TO PAY ALIMONY

Samuel C. Rippeth, who filed an action for divorce in common pleas court April 25 last against his wife, Sarah M. Rippeth, has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $50 temporary alimony on or before June 7 and in addition $60 per month for the support of the defendant and minor children. This order followed a hearing on the motion for alimony. The monthly alimony is to be paid during the pendency of the case.

PLEA FOR PARDON IS WITHDRAWN

A pardon was asked at Harrisburg Wednesday for A. C. Osburn, Beaver county, bank embezzler, who has served less than a year and a half of a sentence of from 15 to 30 years in the Western Penitentiary for embezzlement of $230,000 of the funds of the Woodlawn Trust company, of which he was president and secretary.

Within an hour after the plea for Osburn had been made, his attorney did an unusual thing by asking the board's permission to withdraw the application. Permission was granted.

It was said that the state banking department opposed a pardon for Osburn on the ground that he had not served sufficient time of his sentence. With this opposition, favorable action by the board in his case was considered unlikely, and a refusal against Osburn would have been listed on the board's record. It is understood that an application will be filed after Osburn has served a longer period.

Prince of Wales Finds Paradise in Vicinity of London

EWHURST, Surrey, England. — In search of quiet and rest, and to escape the penalty of popularity, the Prince of Wales has found a little Paradise within fifty miles of London.

He has rented Summerfield, the "cottage" of the Duke of Sutherland, for the entire summer, and the house looks almost like an impregnable Highland fastness among the heather.

Bounded on three sides by precipitous slopes of heather, pine and larch, this isolated dwelling can only be approached from the nearest village, Ewhurst, by what are little better than cart tracks. The house is 800 feet above sea level.

The interior consists of study, smoking, dining and drawing rooms, and a loggia runs the length of the house. There are seven bedrooms, and a fine tennis court and large stables and garages are attached. The 38 acres of grounds are laid out as informal gardens.

Melbourne, Australia, is to have a million-dollar theatre.

DINNER STORIES.

Couldn't Fool Her.

The Scotch people do not like manuscripts in the pulpit. On one occasion the domine warmed up at the close of the sermon and, as he turned the last leaf of his manuscript, he said, "My friends, I might enlarge upon this subject!" An old lady in the gallery was looking down upon him and saw the situation. She had been provoked that he read his sermon, and promptly spoke out: "You canna, you canna, we are doon, and ye know it."

A Delicate Child

"Sir," wrote the indignant mother to the schoolmaster, "you musn't whack my Tommy. He ain't used to it. We never hit him at home except in self-defense."

A Smart Answer.

Once upon a time a student took a chemistry exam. One of the questions was, "Give in detail the process for making mercuric bichloride." In answer to which the student wrote, "God made all things, ever mercuric bichloride." Imagine his surprise when he received his corrected exam book and read, "God gets the credit. You don't. You fail."

A Faint Resemblance.

"My boy," said the patronizing man, as he handed around the Flor de Toofas, "hat's something like a cigar!"

"So it is," responded the victim after he had taken a puff or two; "what is it?"

Physician Goes To Greenville, S. C., To Examine Carroll

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A physician will be sent to Greenville, S. C., to examine Earl Carroll, the theatrical producer, and determine whether he is fit to continue his journey to Atlanta federal prison to serve a year and a day for perjury, it was announced at the department of justice today.

Carroll collapsed several weeks ago while being taken to the prison, and has since been in a Greenville hospital.

Nine Martins Ferry Firemen Illegally Paid as Councilmen

COLUMBUS, May 20.—Nine members of the Martins Ferry fire department were illegally paid $864 for services as city councilmen, according to a ruling contained in a report made public here today by state Auditor Joseph T. Tracy. These firemen, state officials held, should return this money to the Martins Ferry city treasury.

The report covers an investigation by state examiners John H. Powelson, Walter C. Jones and Edward A. Brown of the Martins Ferry city offices for the period from Dec. 12, 1923, to Sept. 13, 1926.

Findings for recovery, totaling $365.23, are returned against the city and various bank companies and persons at Martins Ferry, due to alleged overpayment of interest deposits, expenses to conventions, excessive compensation, duplicate payments and errors in payments, it was claimed.

ESSAY CONTEST FOR CHILDREN

Prizes Offered in "Cross Crossings Cautiously" Drive.

East Liverpool school children have been asked to participate in the essay contest, which is being conducted by the American Railway System association, of which the Pennsylvania road is a part, to promote safety at crossings. Prizes totaling $750 will be awarded the winners.

Subject of the essays will be "Cross Crossings Cautiously!" One prize of $250 will be given for the best essay submitted by the students of the elementary schools; another prize of the same amount for the best essay submitted by the high school and the third prize, also for $250 for the best essay written by the student of a college or technical school.

Essays, which must contain not to exceed 250 words and must be submitted to Superintendent of Schools Charles S. McVay not later than June 1, will be judged at the offices of the American Railway association, at New York.

A prisoner serving a short-time sentence over in Pennsylvania voluntarily took upon himself a life sentence. He married the sheriff's daughter.—Marion Star.

Minerals! vitamins! bran!

—for growth and health

For normal growth in children and radiant health in grown-ups, more than mere quantity of food is now known to be necessary.

That is why the whole-grain foods are now being considered so valuable by nutrition authorities. For they supply health essentials too often neglected.

A bowl of Quick Mother's Oats with milk provides many things needed to make children grow—and to keep grown-ups really well. Minerals! Vitamins! And the oat bran, which is unusually tender and so valuable for roughage in these days of too-highly-refined cereals!

The careful millers of Quick Mother's Oats have learned how to mill it to a fine, even texture—so that it always cooks up smoothly, the way you like it. It tastes good, too.

Two kinds—the kind you have always known or Quick (cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes). Both with coupons interchangeable with Aunt Jemima coupons, for which you may receive silverware, a dinner set, toilet articles—many other things you want.
